Skinny Skribbles

Town

Those geophysical machines which tell you from the top what's at the bottom are "shooting" again in the Santa Ana Gardens sector. Several years ago the Standard Oil company gave the locality a drilling test, and later took away everything but the hole. The new development has been in progress for several days, but no one has brought in any reliable information as to what has been discovered—if anything. Oil in the Santa Ana Gardens section would bring a field right up to our back yard, and one of my friends who was telling me about the activity expressed his willingness to turn in his holdings for a test.

Mamma, that turtle's here again. Last year "Brink" Brinkerhoff took charge of the membership campaign. He's in charge again this year, with a menu so extensive and tempting that most any Elk would try and qualify by getting a new member. That is the requirement for a seat at the banquet table. Sometime during the latter part of February this event will culminate. "Brink" puts out his temptation in an irresistible menu which includes everything from soup to nuts, and he thinks I ought to be there.

And it has been suggested that a safe way to cross intersections would be to have a number of red flags. The pedestrian to carry one while crossing, and leave it on the other side to be used by the fellow going in the opposite direction. The theory is that the color might get recognition, when the pedestrian would not. Red might be all right. Almost everything else is in the red.

Traffic official picks on me and says jaywalking and illumination are not compatible. That jaywalking is not indorsed, no matter how much illumination. I told him I would say so, inasmuch as I did not say so in the first place. Mother might pin a rose on me, but not this criticism.

And then the fem friend impatiently waiting for the bus insisted she knew where she wanted to go if she could only get there.

Good friend in ecstatic mood stops me long enough to include in a rapturous appreciation the Southern California weather, and he was so completely overwhelmed that I wouldn't take the joy out of his life by even suggesting that a good rain would help some.

Why go to India for dates? I meet 'em every day. The fem has a date with the boy friend, the matron a date with the beauty parlor operator, the politician with his manager, the business man with his banker, and sometimes there are those who avoid dates.

And why do they call 'em grand juries?

"Sharp" Sharpley can come and get his folder about the "Daylight" streamline. I'm going south, soon as Baron Long re-opens Caliente, which doesn't look like it is going to happen.

Friend picks up pin. Says it is good luck, especially so if the point is lying in your direction. There may be a point to this superstition, but I suspect it is in the pin.

Neatly enclosed in a cellophane container, eight three-cent stamps and a one-cent stamp comes to a patron of the Pullman company, refund for an over-charge from Ventura to Watsonville. What belongs to you, you will get from the Pullman company, even if you do not file a claim for it. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 1)

WRECKAGE OF CLIPPER SHIP SALVAGED

All of Crew Dead,
Navy Ship Reports

PAGO PAGO, Samoa. (AP)—Clear indication that the giant flying boat Samoan clipper and her crew of seven were destroyed in a fire and explosion was brought back to Pago Pago today by the minesweeper Avocet.

The naval craft returned to port last night with charred fragments from the ship after an all day search of the oil slick 12 miles off Pago Pago where the all-metal transpacific plane crashed in flames Tuesday.

Every item recovered showed signs of an internal explosion. All were charred, burned and covered with aluminum powder.

Because of the condition of the fragments, no hope was held of recovering the bodies of Capt. Edwin C. Musick, 43-year-old Pan-American Airways ace, and his crew of six from the shark-infested waters.

The plane caught fire while dumping excess gasoline preparatory to landing at Pago Pago to repair a broken oil line after starting out on a flight for Auckland, N. Z. It crashed in a thousand fathoms of water.

Wreckage found by the crew of the Avocet included: A coat belonging to Radio Officer T. J. Findley, 29. It showed evidence of holes blown through it. A wing emblem was the identifying mark on the coat.

WRECKAGE FOUND A pair of trousers belonging to J. A. Brooks, 38, assistant engineering officer. It was identified by a tie clasp in the pocket. The clasp was bent.

Pages of the engineering log and other papers.

The plane's navigating desk. Bits of navigators' charts.

Many small wood fragments from the inside of the plane.

RECONSTRUCT TRAGEDY

The surface of the water where the plane sank was covered with hundreds of small fragments carried by searchers to be fragments of the fuselage.

Balboa Property Line Retrial Asked

Denied an injunction against a neighbor's construction of a building adjoining his property line on Balboa Island, Wm. A. Bartholomae, jr., harbor yachtman and oil operator, filed notice today of a motion for new trial.

Bartholomae, through his oil corporation, had asked an injunction against Dr. Howard W. Seager, secretary of the Newport Beach planning commission, on grounds that proceedings of the commission and city council in granting Dr. Seager a zoning ordinance variance were irregular. His petition was denied by Superior Judge H. G. Ames.

HOOVER ON PEACE

PALO ALTO, (AP)—Herbert Hoover, former President, will speak from San Francisco on world peace over the (Columbia) a national radio network at noon (PST) Saturday, Jan. 15. The speech will be under auspices of the Women's National Republican clubs of New York City and San Francisco.

TIGHTENING OF CREDIT IS ADVOCATED

High Pressure Sales
Hit By President

WASHINGTON. (AP)—President Roosevelt was reported today in usually reliable quarters to be negotiating in his conferences with business leaders for a curtailment of credit on installment buying.

Informed persons said he had suggested to the motor industry a tightening of sales credit in line with his previously expressed intention of eliminating "high pressure salesmanship."

This was one of the topics the President was said to have discussed Tuesday with Alfred P. Sloan, jr., chairman of General Motors corporation, and four other prominent industrialists.

One well-posted government official said the President had proposed that the auto industry limit its extension of credit on the purchase of cars to 25 per cent, but that Sloan had rejected the suggestion as too drastic.

Whether Mr. Roosevelt had proposed that this limitation be imposed immediately or at some future time when there were evidences of over-selling was not disclosed.

Others at the conference—Ernest T. Weir, chairman of the National Steel corporation; Lewis Brown, president of Johns-Manville; M. W. Clement, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, and Colby Chester, chairman of the General Foods corporation—were not so directly connected with the (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

PASTOR FASTS FOR 2 WEEKS

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Friends of the Very Rev. Israel Harding Noe waited fearfully today as the 46-year-old clergyman neared the end of his second week without food or water.

Although the dean of St. Mary's fashionable Episcopal cathedral has been carrying on a full schedule of work, physicians among his friends have expressed belief his collapse may come at any hour. He has told them what he is doing is a spiritual demonstration beyond their comprehension.

Friends said Dean Noe had subsisted all of last year on oranges alone, starting from Dec. 23, 1936. Since Jan. 2, the first Sunday of 1937, he has taken only the tiny wafer and sip of wine of the communion service he holds three times weekly.

A man of unusually robust health at the time he began his demonstration, he is now only a shadow of the heavy-set, rosy-cheeked clergyman of former years.

Cardozo Rallies From Illness

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Dr. John Paul Earnest, jr., said today there had been "a slight improvement" in the "general condition" of Associate Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo of the supreme court.

Cardozo is seriously ill with a complication of grippe, shingles and heart disease.

Accused Men Debonair Despite Indictment

BOOK BATTLE RINGS LOUD

Hoiles Yells and Beeman Yells Back

Attacks by the Santa Ana Register against conduct of the city's schools and use of the Rugg textbooks in economics for classes culminated yesterday in a two-hour loud-voiced altercation featuring L. L. Beeman, economics instructor for the junior college, and Editor R. C. Hoiles of the Register.

Beeman flatly refused to answer questions put by Hoiles in the presence of a Register stenographer.

The fracas, which took place in the office of Dean D. K. Hammond, attracted a large audience as heated cries of "coward!" and "who's a coward? You're one yourself!" echoed in the college halls.

Beeman answered accusations of cowardice for refusing to talk before a stenographer by retorting Hoiles was tarred with the same brush for refusing to talk without one.

He told the Register editor that he and other teachers "would be more than willing to talk to anyone that would not pick out parts of our statements and deliberately falsify and misrepresent them."

Beeman also said that the fracas apparently resulted from refusal of Santa Ana teachers to answer questionnaires distributed throughout the school by Hoiles, after the school board had refused to withdraw the debated Rugg books.

He accused the Register publisher of conducting a "vicious campaign" against Beeman and other teachers, including Dean Calvin Flint and Dean Hammond, by "twisting facts and painting false pictures."

Hoiles, according to witnesses, first came to Beeman's office with his stenographer, Beeman refused to talk in her presence. When the instructor left the office and went into that of Dean Hammond, Hoiles followed him there.

At that point, Beeman said, he led the stenographer from the room and returned to his "conference" with Hoiles alone. Hammond and others, however, remained in the room, he said.

Beeman has consistently maintained that "everything Hoiles has said about the schools and the textbooks are misleading and deceptive."

Yesterday's clash between the two ended when Beeman left the room after two hours because one of his classes was meeting.

He announced today that the staff of the schools was joining in his refusal to answer Hoiles' questions, "simply because they fear misrepresentation."

Winbigler, Others Deny All Charges

Police Chief Floyd Howard will be arraigned Monday at 2 p. m. before Federal Judge George W. Cosgrave on charges of conspiracy to smuggle lottery tickets into the United States from Mexico, in connection with a mythical Santa Anita sweepstakes in 1936.

His answer will be "not guilty."

Howard and his brother-in-law, Ernest Winbigler, instructor, surrendered before Federal Commissioner Head yesterday in Los Angeles, where they were booked and posted $2000 bond.

For themselves and through their attorney, S. B. Kaufman, former district attorney of Orange county, both men "vigorously denied" the charges contained in a federal grand jury indictment.

Bench warrants, issued yesterday, were to be served today on as many of the 13 co-defendants as possible, officials said.

WILL KEEP JOB Howard today said he would "continue as before" in his conduct of the chief's office.

"I am innocent until proven guilty," he said. "Naturally I am going to do nothing about this case. I'm still chief of police, and I will do my job as before."

He and Winbigler said virtually the same thing yesterday before the commissioner.

Possibility that steps would be taken to force Howard's leaving office pending trial in the federal courts was scouted by local officials, who said only action in the courts or a recall election could remove the chief.

CANT BE FIRED City councilmen and civil service commissioners have no jurisdiction over Howard as police chief, City Attorney Lew Blodgett said, and could not suspend the chief for any cause, since he is an elective official.

Only an indictment by the county grand jury or recall election could remove him from office, it was indicated, since his refusal to step down as chief pending the trial.

TWO HELD FOR BEACH ROBBERY

Robbery and beating of Sam Matson, Costa Mesa oil promoter, as he was leaving a Sunset Beach cafe last Saturday, was believed solved today following the arrest and asserted confession of two young men.

William Burns, 24, South Gate, and Houston J. Walker, 22, Long Beach taxi-driver, were identified by Matson and other witnesses to the robbery, in which the oil promoter assertedly lost $35 in currency.

Both youths admitted attacking and beating Matson, but they denied taking money from him, according to Chief Criminal Deputy Merle Dean of the sheriff's office.

Another officer clicked handcuffs on Lynn's wrists.

The burglary suspect later was identified as having attempted a burglary at J. E. Braden's home, 805 South Garney street, a few minutes earlier.

Bradley was host at a party for 16 bridge club members when the asserted burglary was attempted, and police believed the suspect had intended to steal purses and wraps belonging to guests at the party.

Lynn's head injury was believed to have been caused by his fall into the cactus, rather than by the shoe.

CLINGS TO JOB

West On Carpet In Grand Jury Special Session

Supervisor N. E. West may go on the carpet again tomorrow, as the county grand jury convenes for a special Friday session bringing the inquisitors toward the end of their probe of courthouse doings.

West, it was indicated, may be called to explain himself further on questions fired at him in a hectic grand jury session just before Christmas from which the little Lagunan emerged appearing ruffled.

Two employees of the county garage were quizzed by the jury yesterday afternoon just before adjournment, possibly in connection with a trip West took last year during which a county car was wrecked and the supervisor took an airplane to Sacramento.

Assessor James Sleeper has charged West was making the trip on a personal errand.

The jury's attention swung to West again yesterday morning as the group met for the first session since the holidays. The five county officials who demanded an investigation of West's charges against them—Sheriff Logan Jackson, Coroner Earl Abbey, Assessor Sleeper, Treasurer T. E. Stephenson and Auditor W. T. Lambert—were called as witnesses today.

Their testimony was brief, with the exception of Sheriff Jackson's, which took more than half an hour.

LABOR SWATS CITIZEN GROUP "Who are the racketeers?" asks the Central Labor Union of Orange County today in a letter issued to business men as a reply to a communication recently sent out by the "Citizens Association of Orange County."

The labor leaders object that the business men have been asked to contribute $12 to this newly-formed organization which has "no name on its office door and sends out unsigned letters."

The letter is signed by Steve F. Davidson and J. A. Trenley, president and secretary, respectively, of the Central Labor Union of Orange County.

Struck on the head by a heavy bar as he was working on an oil derrick at Huntington Beach Tuesday, Searle Johnson, about 40, brother of Marcus Johnson, mayor of Ventura, died yesterday afternoon in St. Joseph hospital.

Johnson, an employee of the Sunset Oil company, was spooling a sand line when the iron bar slipped, swung around and struck his head.

Oil company officials rushed him to the hospital, where he rallied briefly before dying at 1:05 p. m. yesterday. The body was taken to Brown and Wagner mortuary, where an inquest will be conducted at 3 p. m. tomorrow.

$500,000 Capital For Dog Food Firm Orange county's $500,000 dog-food industry was incorporated today.

Articles of incorporation were filed with County Clerk B. J. Smith by the Dr. W. J. Ross company, operators of a factory at Los Alamitos, where meals are manufactured for millions of American pooches.

The articles provide for 500,000 shares of stock, half preferred, at $1 a share. Directors are Dr. Ross, George H. and George B. Hyland of Beverly Hills, George Lawson of Los Angeles and W. Elroy Avery of Long Beach.

BURGLAR BREAKS UP COP'S BRIDGE GAME

Imprisoned in county hospital with a nasty gash in his head, Albert Lynn, 39, Hawthorn, today was convicted he made a social error last night when he assertedly interrupted a policeman's party.

Charged with two attempted burglaries in which he was reported to have collected no loot whatever, Lynn was surprised by Richard Bradley, Santa Ana police patrolman, as he assertedly was entering Bradley's house, 925 Cypress street, through a bedroom window.

Lynn and Bradley saw each other at about the same time as Bradley was coming out of the house to put his car away. The intruder broke and ran through several back yards, finally tripping over a garbage can and landing in a bed of cactus in E. L. Flanagan's yard, 1019 Cypress street.

Bradley jumped on him, assertedly was told to "Watch out—I have a gun," then struck Lynn with a shoe that had come off during the scuffle.

Flanagan's son, Charles, 14, heard the struggle and rushed out, helping Bradley subdue the other man until a prowl car arrived and another officer clicked handcuffs on Lynn's wrists.

The burglary suspect later was identified as having attempted a burglary at J. E. Braden's home, 805 South Garney street, a few minutes earlier.

Bradley was host at a party for 16 bridge club members

when the asserted burglary was attempted, and police believed the suspect had intended to steal purses and wraps belonging to guests at the party.

Lynn's head injury was believed to have been caused by his fall into the cactus, rather than by the shoe.

HOUSE COMMITTEE SLASHES 60 MILLION FROM FEDERAL BUDGET

TREASURY, P. O. FUNDS TO BE CUT

Billion Dollar Bill Gets Approval

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The house appropriations committee, approving budget cuts and making some of its own, turned out a treasury-postoffice department appropriations bill today that was $60,862,722 less than the previous one.

The committee said, however, "it should be borne in mind" several deficiency appropriations might be necessary for the current fiscal year, particularly for the federal land banks and the farm mortgage corporation, and would correspondingly diminish the saving.

HUGE TOTAL
The bill carrying a total of $1,515,552,286 for the two departments during the fiscal year beginning next July 1 won the committee's approval and went immediately to the house floor for debate. Leaders hoped to pass it early next week.

The treasury total of $725,862,627 compared to $791,666,955 for the current fiscal year, included a reappropriation of $115,000,000 for the old-age pension reserve account which the committee listed as an unexpended balance from the current appropriation.

Next year's item for the post-office department was $789,689,659 compared to $784,748,053 for the fiscal 12 months ending next June 30.

BUREAU SLASH
The committee slashed $7,916,050 from the budget bureau's estimates although it recommended substantial increases in some items, including $1,300,000 for domestic air mail.

It approved a net increase of $78,687 for the Coast Guard to permit the purchase of two new harbor patrol boats and three amphibian planes. This brought the Coast Guard item to $25,438,527.

The committee cut $500,000 from the treasury's request for funds to finance the sale of "baby" bonds asserting it did not approve "expenditure of any considerable sums for advertising or other expensive methods of pushing sales."

REDUCTIONS TOLD
Some of the principal reductions were:

$140,000,000 from the $500,000,000 originally proposed as the annual item for the old age reserve account.

Elimination of a $20,000,000 subscription to the paid-in surplus of the federal land banks.

Elimination of a $15,000,000 fund for refund of processing taxes.

Elimination of a $1,000,000 subscription to the capital stock of the United States housing authority.

Among the larger increases were $8,700,000 to reimburse federal land banks and the federal farm mortgage corporation for a reduction in interest on farm mortgages; $5,000,000 for refunds of internal-revenue taxes and $1,700,000 for salaries and expenses of the bureau of engraving.

The committee recommended appropriation of $11,000,000 to continue the three year public building program authorized last year.

SKINNY SKRIBBLES

would appear that the auditing department watches receipts rather closely. This refund came four months after the original transaction.

When a bridge player holds thirteen trumps he makes the front page. When he trumps his partner's ace, he makes a mistake which his partner is unable to overlook, or forgive.

With federal grand juries and county grand juries "considering," there is some anxiety prevalent. Not having anything, I'm sort of in a complacent mood.

My friend E. G. Warner, retired from civic and political affairs after a long career, including postal inspector during the McKinley administration, called to tell me about orange growing. E. G. has a fine grove on Willits street. Big crop, nice sizes, fine texture. Doesn't care for any freeze. Had enough of it last year.

This is the time when financial institutions hold their annual meetings. My status will show a slight improvement one way, and a slight decline another. Just a matter of some one else holding the paper.

I do not know whether Orange county was too cold for my friend Malcolm Macurda or whether Imperial county will get too hot for him, but he will be able to tell me during the good old summer time. Understand he has been transferred south. It's all right with me where ever he goes, but my recollection is that he had an appointment with me which, if it has been kept, escaped my memory. I am perfectly willing it should be refreshed.

VAG SENTENCE
Lester Cumberland, Long Beach, was sentenced to 30 days in Orange county jail on a vagrancy charge heard by Justice of the Peace Kenneth E. Morrison today.

The Spanish inquisition began in the 15th and 16th centuries and was not wholly abolished until 1834.

Search Charred Ruins of Airliner for Mail

A. H. Davis of the Air Express company, Postmaster H. H. Howard of Bozeman and Pilot Al Olsen are shown searching the charred ruins of the Northwest Airlines "Flying Zephyr" 14 miles northeast of Bozeman, Mont. The airliner crashed and burst into flames, killing the 10 occupants.

INSTALLMENT PLAN ATTACKED

At a press conference last week, however, the President told of a steel manufacturer whose production had dropped from 90 to 28 per cent of capacity because of the slump in automobile production and uneven purchases of rails by the railroads.

Mr. Roosevelt said steel production had been unbalanced by railroads purchasing rails for an entire year at one time, causing an undue acceleration of production during part of the year and a slump during the remainder.

At the same time the President criticized the automobile industry for selling cars on a 24-month credit arrangement instead of the previous 18 months, and for overselling by telling prospective purchasers that the price was going "high pressure."

William Knudsen, president of General Motors, also denounced this practice in testimony before a senate committee.

In his discussions of over-selling and high pressure salesmanship, the President has tied up the question with the whole problem of industrial planning to even production.

One of the administration's business advisers and cooperation between industry and government in such planning would be smoothed by revising the anti-trust laws to let business men know what they can do as well as what they cannot do under these statutes.

EXPECT MESSAGE
The President expects to send congress a message soon asking changes in these laws. One official, however, expressed uncertainty whether a production control plan would be completed for submission at this session or next.

A well-defined plan has been worked out, however, by which industry would undertake voluntarily to cooperate with a single government agency—possibly the department of commerce—in determining controlled production schedules months in advance of marketing the products.

Mr. Roosevelt, meanwhile, is going ahead with his talks with business leaders. The biggest conference arranged so far will take place next Wednesday when 50 members of the commerce department's influential business advisory council come here to discuss recovery with the President.

Bombing Danger Causes Fire Engine Building

LONDON, (American Wire)—Thousands of small fire engines will be manufactured to meet the danger of incendiary bombardment, according to plans of the war ministry. Officials estimate that one enemy bombing plane could set 150 fires almost simultaneously. The fire engines will be of the trailer-car type, capable of being towed by the private cars of auxiliary firemen, of whom 200,000 are to be recruited.

Wolves Menace Bulgarian Herds

SOFIA, Bulgaria, (American Wire)—Packs of black wolves are menacing the sheep herds near the Bulgarian-Turkish frontier, having killed over 200 during the past year, according to authorities. Villagers are organizing vigilante parties. Near the village of Ravna Gora, on the Black Sea, a pack attacked a flock and killed 80 before being driven off.

Liquor Getting Better, Congress Members Learn

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Congress learned officially today that the quality of liquor is improving. This information came to a house appropriations subcommittee from W. S. Alexander, federal alcohol administrator.

"Do you learn that by investigations?" inquired Rep. Daly (D., Pa.).

"Yes, sir," Alexander replied, "by investigations."

nese military purposes. Foreign and commercial ships were advised to get in touch with Japanese naval officials before attempting passage of the stream.

Japanese promised that if the military situation permitted, convoys would be granted.

American authorities interpreted the Japanese announcement as a modification of previously existing opposition to navigation of the river under any circumstances.

GENERAL ARRESTED FOR DEFENSE FAILURE
SHANGHAI, (AP)—Chinese sources reported today that General Han Fu-Chu, governor of Shantung province, had been arrested by order of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek for alleged failure to halt the Japanese invasion howling over China's "sacred province."

Official confirmation was lacking, and other reports said Han had flown to Suichow to confer with the generalissimo on defense of the Lunghai railway.

But the sources reporting Han's arrest said the failure of his troops to halt Japan's southern thrust through Shantung had made such a defense difficult. They said Han's fate was not known.

Dry Lake Beds Bring Little Gold Rush

MINA, Nev. (AP)—A mild stampede to locate old dry lake beds has followed revelation that gold, platinum and quicksilver are being recovered from the salt beds of Columbus marsh near here. Los Angeles capitalists were behind the original work on the salt beds and installed milling equipment.

Dry lake beds have long been worked, but usually for salt, borax or the non-metallic minerals.

Rice Given as Dole Is Used for Liquor

SAN FRANCISCO, (AP)—In issuing relief rationing, authorities decided it would be wise to give impoverished Chinatown residents plenty of rice. Mrs. Ng Shee Tom seemed especially appreciative. But federal agents, knowing some of the most potent drinks of the Orient are distilled from rice, kept their eyes open. Now Mrs. Ng is in jail and her rice no longer is going into a five-gallon home-made still.

structed, gasoline being dumped was vaporized and ignited, presumably by a hot exhaust pipe. Whether an explosion occurred in mid-air or after the 21-ton metal flying boat hit the water was not hazarded by authorities here.

The Avocet's officers cryptically announced: "Plane and crew lost."

They briefly listed the items recovered and added, "no evidence of bodies."

The crew consisted of Capt. Muck, Brooks, Findley; First Officer Cecil G. Sellers, 42; Paul S. Brunk, 30, junior flight officer; J. W. Stickrod, 23, engineering officer and Navigator F. J. MacLean, 42.

FLYER'S ASHES STREWN IN AIR

The body of Joseph William Skidmore, prominent Laguna Beach man killed in an automobile accident Monday night, will be cremated following funeral services tomorrow morning, and the remains of the pioneer Orange county aviator will be scattered by his widow, Mrs. Joan Skidmore, over the ocean from an airplane flown by his son, Orville.

As plans were completed for final tribute to one of Laguna Beach's best-known pioneers, Coroner Earl Abbey today announced no inquest would be held into the death, which occurred accidentally as he was driving alone in Laguna canyon when his car ran off the road and collided with a high-tension pole.

J. O. York of Santa Monica, an old friend and former fellow aviator of Mr. Skidmore, will officiate at the funeral services, scheduled for 10 a. m. tomorrow from the Laguna Beach funeral home.

'Dolly' Set for Next Christmas

Alger L. (Dolly) Gray will celebrate his 12th consecutive Christmas in Orange county jail, Justice of the Peace Kenneth E. Morrison decreed today.

Freed Sunday after serving a month on drunk charges, Gray was back in jail Tuesday. Today he was sentenced to serve six months for the latest drunk charge, two months for violating one suspended sentence, and six months and 90 days for another violation of a suspended sentence. The sentences will run consecutively, which lets "Dolly" out of jail June 13, 1939, unless officials show leniency.

Blames Modern Life for Crime

BUFFALO, N. Y. (American Wire)—"The competitive complex of modern culture" is responsible for crime, Nathaniel Cantor, professor of sociology at the University of Buffalo, declared today. "Contrary to popular belief," he said, "most criminals are not courageous, hard-boiled and sturdy individuals. They are a cross-section of the weakest members of society. Their crimes are symptoms of their own emotional insecurity, which in turn is reflective of deep-seated conflicts in our culture."

If a kitten reaches the age of two or three months without any experience with mice, it will not show a mousing instinct later.

CHIEF HOLDS TO POSITION UNDER FIRE

rendered yesterday at 2:30 p. m. to Deputy U. S. Marshal Frank L. Besser, in the offices of Attorney Joe Burke, associated with Kaufman in the defense of the pair.

"COLONEL" GOES ALONG
They were driven to Los Angeles by "Col." Alvin B. Berry, accompanied by Ernest Webb, Santa Ana bail bondsman.

Efforts to elude news reporters by entering the marshal's office through a rear entrance failed, and photographers and reporters surrounded the pair and followed them into the office.

Howard was fingerprinted, then Winbiger. They at first refused to pose for pictures, but later submitted to a barrage of exposures, on advice of Kaufman.

Howard has been chief of police for seven years, taking office after serving for several years as deputy under former Sheriff Sam Jernigan. Prior to that time he had been employed by an oil company. Winbiger is the son of Theo Winbiger, long prominently connected with the Santa Ana business world, and one of the city's pioneer morticians.

STEADY TRIAL
Chief Deputy U. S. Attorney W. Fleet Palmer yesterday said the case would be brought to as speedy a trial as possible.

Palmer, who will be in charge of the prosecution, said the indictments against Howard and the 12 others were voted by the grand jury a week ago, but not returned until yesterday. They were the result of an investigation launched more than a year ago.

Named from Orange county with Howard and Winbiger were C. W. "Hutch" Hutchings, long-time Balboa chip game operator; Henry McKague, former prohibition enforcement agent, and more lately liquor salesman, and Howard S. Atcheson, salesman.

CONSPIRACY
The specific accusation against Howard accuses him of conspiracy to smuggle the tickets into this country, and of transporting $500 into Mexico in connection with the sweepstakes fraud.

Federal agents revealed yesterday that more than 3,000,000 tickets, to be sold at $1 each, had been printed in Mexico for sale in this country, and that at least 200,000 of these had been sold before Federal agents disrupted the project.

Headquarters for the ring ascertained were in Santa Ana, officials said yesterday. Ticket agents through this city were said to have been distributed throughout the entire Pacific coast area.

Drawings on the Santa Anita handicap of Dec. 25, 1936, were to have taken place on Dec. 12, according to plans of promoters.

PENALTY HEAVY

Kaufman said today that no defense plans had been mapped as yet.

It was indicated, however, that the first step of the defense would be to challenge the authenticity of the grand jury indictments, following arraignment before Judge Cosgrave.

The men face prison terms of 2 years, a $10,000 fine, or both, if convicted.

Soldiers Cling To Umbrellas

SHANGHAI, China, (AP)—Modernization of China's armies has not yet reached the stage where it has been possible to abolish the umbrella in favor of the raincoat as a part of the Chinese soldier's pack equipment.

The raincoat, in the mind of the Chinese private in Chiang Kai-Shek's regiments, is a useless article because it doesn't keep the head dry. As a result of this attitude all efforts on the part of military authorities at Nanking to induce the soldier to give up his oil-paper umbrella for rubberized top-coats have proven futile.

Another Chinese argument in favor of the umbrella as an item of military importance is that it forms an ideal medium of camouflage. More than four feet in diameter, it gives protection to almost the entire body of a soldier curled up beneath it. Covered with straw or branches of trees, it is difficult for the enemy to detect, even with field-glasses.

Sales Tax and Business Cause Coin Increase

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross, director of the mint and former Wyoming governor, announced a 1643 per cent increase in the production of coins in the last three years over the preceding three year period.

"The demand for coins has been so prodigious that it seems incredible," Mrs. Ross told a house appropriations subcommittee during a hearing on the annual treasury department appropriation bill.

Asked to explain the increase, Mrs. Ross said:

"Undoubtedly, the revival of business was what started it and has been the chief factor. I think that the sales taxes in most of the states have had a very direct bearing on it; also, the large increase in government expenditures has doubtless had an influence."

POLITICS IN HOWARD JAM

Yesterday's indictment of Police Chief Floyd Howard was significant in two corners of the political picture.

1. It absolutely removed Howard as a possibility (he wasn't considering it much, anyway) for a place in the sheriff's race this year.

2. It gave Ben Harrison, new United States district attorney, his first sensational case and his first chance to put on the pressure.

Howard knew this was coming; and so did various other persons in the county, including some newspapermen and some who might be found on the other side should Howard have run for sheriff.

It was known by a few, in fact, since November of 1936, when Howard was politely requested to appear for questioning in Los Angeles. He appeared and was questioned; so were several others; but the matter it looked as if neither Los Angeles county nor the federal men were going to prosecute.

There are those who point to an old college friendship between Pierson Hall, ousted U. S. district attorney general, and S. B. Kaufman, Howard's attorney. Which may mean nothing.

At any rate, Harrison was appointed through efforts of Col. Bill Nebbett, Senator McAdoo's law partner, and must make good for dear old Nebbett. If a vigorous prosecution should make Hall look as though he should have done something last year, it also would be damaging to Hall's gubernatorial ambitions.

Harrison no doubt will shoot the wad.

Locally, Howard has not been looked upon by those in the know as a candidate for sheriff. Ever since the lottery story first began to get around, it has been known for dear old Nebbett. If a vigorous prosecution should make Hall look as though he should have done something last year, it also would be damaging to Hall's gubernatorial ambitions.

In the police department, this explosion will result in only one possible change. Should Howard resign or be convicted, the city will be in the market for a new chief. Plummer Bruns, police commissioner, would like the job; and his fellow councilmen would be likely to appoint him should either of those things happen to Howard.

Incidentally, a laugh during a nerve-racking day yesterday was a relief. Telephones had jangled all morning at Howard's home and office and Kaufman's house, with practically every reporter in town looking for a statement from the chief.

Finally there came a call from the police department. The police reporter grabbed the phone, hoping for Howard.

"Say," came the voice of Desk Sgt. J. F. McWilliams, "I wonder if I can get a couple of calendar pads . . ."

Nonchalant, huh?

'BABY' BOND MARKET COST EXCESSIVE

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Records of a congressional committee disclosed today that two administration activities—selling "baby bonds" and collecting social security taxes—are proving unusually expensive.

Edwin L. Kilby, assistant commissioner of the treasury's public debt service, told the house appropriations committee the small denomination bond program had cost about $3,606,870 from 1935 to 1937 and that it would cost approximately $6,095,000 during the next two years.

"It is true that they are an expensive security to market," Kilby said, "but I do not believe any security has been better marketed or more widely spread among the population of our country. They create an interest in government, I believe."

Later in the hearings, Frederick I. Evans, budget officer of the internal revenue bureau, told the committee, in response to a question by Rep. Ludlow (D., Ind.) as to whether the social security taxes cost more to collect than other taxes, that the bureau spent $1.44 to collect each $100 in social security and railroad retirement taxes.

The committee learned, however, the bureau hoped to save about $4,000,000 annually by having the social security tax returns filed on a quarterly basis instead of monthly.

Local victims in Bunco Deal Sought

Orange county victims of a 55-year-old bunco artist, described as weighing 155 pounds, standing 5 feet 11 inches in height, gray-haired, were being sought today following the arrest of Floyd A. Edwards, alias Andrew Edwards, by Los Angeles police.

Edwards was arrested in connection with alleged fraudulent sale of oil leases in New Mexico, and Carbon county, Wyoming, and local sheriff's officers believed he may have been working in Santa Ana and Orange county, though they have received no complaints from victims.

WRIGHT LOVE DEATH TRIAL OPENS TODAY

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Paul A. Wright, outwardly composed and calm, was brought into court today for trial on charges that he murdered his wife Evelyn and "best friend," John B. Kimmel when he found them embracing.
Of hundreds of persons who milled about the corridors of the hall of justice, 250 were allowed to enter the courtroom of Superior Judge Ingall W. Bull.

The first persons admitted to the room was Dr. J. J. Wright of Milwaukee, Wis., the defendant's father.

Wright went through his usual routine before the trial—eating breakfast of cereal, doughnuts and coffee. Then he changed from his blue jail attire to a dark business suit.
The former manager of Union Air terminal, busy west coast airport, has pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity, but no sanity hearing will be conducted unless he is convicted.

Defense Attorney Jerry Giesler said Wright would take the stand in his defense and tell of the scene confronting him when he claims he found his pretty wife and Kimmel, his airport aide, embracing in his living room Nov. 9.

"What Wright saw was more than a kiss. It dealt the final blow to his trembling nerves and caused the tragedy," Giesler asserted.

"He fired the shots while in an uncontrollable mental condition," Chief Prosecution Attorney S. Ernest Roll countered with the statement that he expected to prove the double shooting was "murder—deliberate, cold-blooded and malicious."

PROBE FATHER-DAUGHTER LOVE

SCOTSDALE, Pa. (AP)—Death—recorded today as murder and suicide—ended the strange love of a father and daughter who met only recently in this Westmoreland county mining village, then learned their relationship.
The girl's mother, Pearl Hollis, found the bodies, side by side and both shot in the head, in the living room of her home yesterday.

Dr. H. Albert McMurray, coroner, identified the dead as 47-year-old Nelson Meese and his 17-year-old daughter, Nellie. McMurray listed the deaths as murder and suicide.
The coroner said Meese had not seen his daughter since her birth until they met here recently, and that the two had then fallen in love. He said two letters found in the girl's purse led him to this conclusion.

Don't Imitate Others

By DALE CARNEGIE

One of the costliest lessons I've had to learn in life was the utter futility of trying to imitate other people. When I started out to write, I literally wasted years trying to write like other people, and it was only when I forgot about other people's methods and rolled up my sleeves and resolved to be Dale Carnegie that I ever produced material that was saleable at all.

I first came to New York in 1911, and I came to attend the American Academy of Dramatic Art. In those days I wanted to be a Barrymore or a John Drew. I felt all that was necessary was to go and see the great stars of that day act and then do precisely as they did. It sounded simple, but it didn't work.

Last summer I saw some Little Theater actors making the same mistakes that I used to make. I went to see a group of amateurs in a play called "The Good Fairy." I had seen it on Broadway with Helen Hayes and Walter Connolly in the stellar roles. These amateurs merely tried to imitate Helen Hayes and Walter Connolly, and it was rather a pathetic affair. They spoke precisely the same words that Hayes and Connolly spoke, but oh, what a difference there was in the effect of those words!

Don't try to imitate. Be that most difficult of all persons—yourself.
Not one of us but will agree

RECOVER TEN MINE VICTIMS

PITTSBURGH. (AP)—Weary rescue crews brought to the snow-covered mouth of the Harwick mine today the last body of 10 men killed in an explosion two miles back in the pit yesterday.
As rescue workers came up the shaft, state mine inspectors immediately prepared to go down in an attempt to learn the cause of the blast that partly wrecked a passageway while 35 men were cleaning the idle mine.

Fumes and fire killed the men, the company officers reported, expressing the opinion that a spark from a pick or a power line ignited a pocket of gas. All were married and most of them fathers.
The dead were Frank Ciesielski, 44; Anthony Woinor, 49; John Kruszek, 21; Joseph Lerch, 24; Doss Nichols, 41; Thomas Keefe, 38; Joseph Koprivinkar, 41; Frank Harpster, 32; Joe Prelesnik, 44; and Matt Anderson, 58, a mine foreman.

Four were injured, two critically, and brought out by their heroic companions.

POLICE PROBE DEATH OF PAIR

NEW YORK. (AP)—Crime scientists peered through microscopes at a pistol bullet and knots in silk stockings today in an effort to solve the puzzling murder of two women in the Long Island village of Elmont.
The bullet had ripped through the head of 19-year-old Jean Schuellain as she sat in the home of Mrs. Lenida Waite, 50-year-old widow and a neighbor.

Mrs. Waite's body also shot through the head, lay in a bed. The wrists and ankles of both women were bound with silk stockings. There were no signs of a struggle.
Irish Parliament To Be Dissolved
BELFAST, Northern Ireland. (AP)—Dissolution of the Northern Ireland parliament Jan. 20 and general elections Feb. 9 were ordered unexpectedly today.

RECORD FRUIT PACK TOLD FOR STATE

SAN FRANCISCO. (AP)—The Cannery's League of California announced today the state had its greatest fruit and vegetable pack in history in 1937.

The combined total of 41,561,000 cases was 12 per cent greater than in 1936. The fruit pack of 21,517,000 cases was up five million from the preceding year.

The enormous pack of cling peaches, accounting for around 95 per cent of the nation's output, was 12,205,000 cases.

The vegetable pack of nearly 16,000,000 cases held close to the historical high mark of 1936. It was composed mostly of tomato products, asparagus and spinach.

ROSECRANS NEW CHAMBER HEAD

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—W. C. Rosecrans, former head of the county farm bureau, will serve as president of the Los Angeles chamber of commerce during 1938.

Rosecrans will succeed Byron C. Hanna, who, by custom, will become treasurer of the chamber. Election of the new president was announced last night. He is the grandson of William Starke Rosecrans, major general in the Civil war, later minister to Mexico and one of the original incorporators of the Southern Pacific railroad.

Governor Mad, Too Many Voters Ask for Jobs

PHOENIX. (AP)—Gov. R. C. Stanford closed his "employment office" today, announcing there were no more jobs for patronage seekers.
The governor said 40,000 persons had applied to him for state jobs in the year he has held office. There were less than 500 positions at his disposal.

Within a few months after becoming governor, Stanford said he would not seek re-election because job seekers had disrupted his home life and distracted him from official duties.

SCOUTS PLAN INTENSIVE PROGRAM

A more intensive program of general public instruction during 1938 was one of the principal objectives Scout Executive Harrison White set forth at the recent annual meeting of the county scout council at Costa Mesa.

It is the hope of White that a closer tie into the home of each scout through leaflets and troop motivation may be effected during the coming year. During the year appointment of a court of honor representative for every troop committee is promised and it is hoped there may be an enlistment of more men with musical training as Sea Scout skip-pers.

In summarizing the work of the past year, White gave a detailed report of new troops organized during the year, commencing formation of a scout troop at the juvenile home. A total of 1222 merit badges were awarded, 15 Eagle badges presented, 35 life badges and 102 advancements to first-class scouts were presented, White said.

Outdoor activities, the report continued, included 500 scouts at Camp Rokili summer camp and 40 at winter camp. During the summer, 3502 scouts were accommodated at Camp Irvine. The Sea Scout rendezvous at Newport Beach drew 700 Sea Scouts from three Western states and the Region 12 camporal drew 1835 more.

During the year 529 new scouts were received in Orange county troops, which number 51. At the present time there are 1337 scouts and 1608 cub scouts in the county.

Elected with the new officers to the board of directors of the booster body were Lloyd Acord, Roy Baker, Paul D. Conover, Gene Douglas, Ray Fischer, Leslie F. Kimmel, Kurt Perrin, G. A. Portus, Mrs. Ada Purpus, and Lloyd Sells.

estimates that about 50 condors live in two colonies in the Santa Barbara national forest. Two small colonies also are reported colonies also are reported in Kern county.

STILL "TOPS"... after 31 Years As a Tobacco Auctioneer

Veteran Jim Edwards tells why tobacco experts prefer Luckies 2 to 1...

"I recently sold 489,000 pounds of tobacco in one 6½ hour day," says Mr. J. N. Edwards of Farmville, North Carolina.
"There was a buyer, naturally, for every one of those 489,000 pounds... But there was as much difference between the best grades and the inferior, as between a pretty girl and a homely one."
"At auction after auction, I've seen Lucky Strike go after the prettiest lots of tobacco. It's no wonder Luckies taste so good. I've smoked them since 1917."
"And another thing... even after yelling out tobacco bids all during a seven hour day, Luckies are still just as easy as ever on my throat."

Only Lucky Strike offers you the finest tobacco plus the throat-protecting of the exclusive process "It's Toasted". This process takes out certain irritants found in all tobacco—even the finest.
Men who know tobacco from A to Z—experts like Mr. Edwards—are surely good judges of cigarettes... Sworn records show that, among independent tobacco experts, Luckies have twice as many exclusive smokers as have all the other cigarettes combined.

Like comedy with your basketball?

If you do, reserve the night of Jan. 19 on your sports calendar.

The New York Broadway Clowns are coming to town next Wednesday, and the all-colored troupe guarantees an evening of laughter along with some choice basketball.

They go up against Santa Ana Junior college's cagers on the Tustin High school floor at nominal prices—40 cents for adults, 25 cents for children.

The fast-stepping negroes boast they played exactly 105 games during the 1936-37 season with only five men. They traveled 30,000 miles and never had a man out of the lineup because of injury or illness, and even had a player removed on personal furlough. They lost only three games.

The Clowns boast a dazzling passing attack, and once in the lead, they resort to all kinds of trick and fancy shots. They even guarantee to make the referee laugh.

Before laying plans for the all-colored team, however, Blanchard Beatty's Santa Anas have more important business at hand. Tomorrow night, at Fullerton, they begin "playing for keeps" against the defending champions of the Eastern J. C. conference.

Fullerton players scouted Santa Ana's 38 to 36 victory at La Verne college Tuesday night, and undoubtedly their coach, Art (Lucky) Nunn, has been fashioning his defense to stop the Dons' six-foot-six center, Cy Levernman. Against La Verne, the team Fullerton trimmed 40-32 in an earlier game, Levernman tossed in 19 points.

Beatty has uncovered a potential first-stringer in Bob Steele, six-foot-two Colorado prep who has been in college all semester, but just recently reported for the Don squad.

Fullerton will carry an edge tomorrow night, but don't count Santa Ana out of it.

ARMSTRONG'S RIVAL FOLDS UP IN SIXTH

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK. (AP)—Enrico Venturi, the Italian fistic virtuoso, who folded like a dollar accordion against Henry Armstrong last night, had enough worries on his mind today to occupy a dozen people.

Enrico's share of the purse was held up pending an investigation of why he nestled against the canvas and permitted himself to be counted out toward the last of the sixth round, when he obviously was able to remain on his pins.

Further, he was under a month's suspension in New York State because he had weighed in for the bout three pounds over the stipulated limit of 135 pounds. Things, in fact, looked very dark for Venturi's fistic future.

FOUL IS CLAIMED

His plight was matched only by the 12,000 fans who paid their way into the Garden to see him fight Armstrong, and who wound up watching the Italian give his own version of the dying swan. They, the customers, really took a lacing.

Venturi, after having tried vainly for five and a fraction rounds to stay clear of Armstrong's homicidal swings, suddenly notified Referee Arthur Donovan that he had been fouled. Donovan looked appropriately blank, though some of the ringers had noted that Armstrong was digging in slightly below the belt.

When Donovan declined to do anything about it, Venturi registered anger and slowly, like a circus elephant, got down on the floor and stretched out. Donovan got in touch with the timekeeper and counted 10. Venturi got to his feet, fast, and started arguing with the referee of a backwoods debating society, but Donovan was busy tilting Armstrong's hand.

The knockout, such as it was, constituted the 21st in a row for Armstrong, who looked as mystified as anybody else when Venturi bowed out. The Italian had made him a very good record, though, a year of fighting on this side, and a surprising amount of money had been bet on him. He was reputed to be tough, but he clearly didn't refresh what the dusky destroyer put out.

Armstrong from the start went boring in prattle-legged, taking everything Enrico had to offer without apparent concern and swinging, swinging, Enrico ducked, dodged and stuck a fancy left into Henry's mug that sent the gallery yelling.

LOW BLOWS IN FIFTH

That went on for several rounds, and some began to think that Enrico would last the limit against the featherweight champion. He looked very sprightly. But Henry just kept bouncing in there, plucking away at Enrico's body for a while and then at Enrico's head. In the fourth an Armstrong right caught Enrico on the chin and the Italian hit the canvas. He rebounded without a count, but he didn't look so happy when he came to his corner. The next round, the fifth, Armstrong began to punish his heavier opponent, though he lost the round because of a couple of low blows.

In the sixth Armstrong suddenly ripped a left-right to Venturi's jaw at close quarters, staggering the Italian and causing him to cover. A moment later Venturi, having fought his way back to his own corner, decided the thing had gone far enough.

Dr. William Walker, brother of New York's Jimmy Walker, examined Enrico carefully afterward and could find no trace of the punch that had laid the pugilist low.

Today a year ago—Hall Price Headley's whopper broke Hialeah park record by winning six furlong inaugural handicap in 1:09 4-5.

Trojan Cagers Entrain for Uphill Fight at Stanford

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Faced with the discouraging task of trying to stop Hank Luisetti and his sharp-shooting Stanford teammates, the University of Southern California basketball squad will entrain today for Palo Alto, where the Trojans and Indians will meet on Friday and Saturday nights.

Victorious in nine games out of 11 starts the pre-conference schedule, the Trojans opened their league play last Friday with a 48-31 victory over U.C.L.A. Stanford's first conference competition will be against Southern California this week-end, the Indians having led up to the opening of the league schedule with an eastern trip in which they were in doubt as to what his starting quintet will be against Stanford.

Best scoring five has consisted of three sophomores and two former reserves, giving the Tro-

DONS LAUNCH RUGBY SKED

Primed for a vigorous season in the Southern California Rugby league in which they will defend last year's laurels, Santa Ana Junior college's ruggerers engage U. C. L. A.'s varsity and reserves tomorrow afternoon in a practice tilt at Westwood. The Dons play the Bruins in their first league match, Jan. 21, at the Municipal bowl.

Fifteen men will make the trip with Coach Ernest Butterworth. They are Russell (Rusty) Roquet, Danny Boyd, Dick Tauber, Bill Twist, Ed Stanley, Bob Pannell, Charles Stafford, Bill Wilson, Fred Kobayashi, Gil Nehrig, John Joseph, Grant Kellar, John McBride, Jerry Nesmith and Glen Cave, with the possible addition of several others.

TROJANS LOSE 440 CHAMPION

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Harold Smallwood, National 440-meter sprint champion in 1936 and a member of the Olympic team that year, must retire from track competition, Dr. Leland Chapman, physician, advised today.

Co-captain of the 1938 University of Southern California track and field squad, Smallwood was unable to compete in the International games in 1936 because of an attack of appendicitis. This came on the eve of the 440-meter finals at Berlin.

Dr. Chapman said Smallwood's illness had caused a weakening of his heart muscles and further competition might result in a permanent injury.

Budge Still Ill; Mako Is Defeated

ADELAIDE, Australia. (AP)—Donald Budge, American and Wimbledon tennis champion, ill of influenza, today was considered a doubtful starter in an exhibition doubles match he was scheduled to play tomorrow.

In the first match of an international contest being played along the lines of Davis cup competition, Jack Bromwich of Australia defeated Gene Mako of Los Angeles, 7-5, 7-5, 7-5.

jans an entirely new lineup since 1937. This "offensive team" has Sophomore Ralph Vaughn at forward with Gail Goodrich, who subbed at both forward and guard last year. Dale Sears, sophomore and runner up to Vaughn for individual high scoring honors, is the center of this quintet, with Hal Dornisfe, two-year reserve, pairing with Sophomore Tom McGarvis at guard.

Trojan's "defensive team" also has a new lineup. Jimmy Vaughn and Dornisfe in the lineup, but Carl Buttacup) Anderson, veteran of the 1937 five, goes to center and Capt. Bill Remsen, also a regular last year, teams with Dornisfe at guard. The lineup is completed with Clem Ruhl, sub last season, at forward.

Southern California started the "defensive team" against the Bruins last Friday and the scoring was kept down, with the Trojans holding a 15-12 lead at half-time. A few minutes after the opening of the second half, Barry sent in Sears, Goodrich and McGarvis and the new offensive punch brought 33 points in this period and ran the final Trojan total to 48.

Sharpshooting Santa Anita

By FRANK FISKE

We have to apologize to the customers today for completely spoiling two races for them yesterday. So far as the Phantom and I are able to judge our selections were perfect, but I made the mistake of betting on them. Otherwise, I still believe they would have won and I am forced to the sad conclusion that I can defeat any horse on the American turf with a two-dollar bet.

All I can do to square things is to promise it won't happen again and warn you all against overconfidence in the future.

First... ATTA BUNNY is a nice colt and I still think Major Woodruff has a tricky way of handling 2-year-olds. COUNSELLORESS deserves support on the strength of what she did in her previous outing and MY WOMAN is highly thought of by the stable.

Second... Like hunting the pieces of a jig-saw puzzle, but it looks as though LIBERTY FLIGHT CLARCAROLLE in the order named to make a perfect picture.

Third... I'm going to do an "Ajax-defying-the-lightning" here and dare them to beat COUNSELLOR FAL. If anything makes him extend himself, it will be COUNSELY CAR, and PURSE STRINGS should be there or thereabouts at the finish.

Fourth... This is a sort of racing rarity because COUNT EDWARD not only gets it on plain arithmetic but is also a winner in every event like this. Of course, such rumors don't include all the established hands at the spot. Take Lou Gehrig for instance; they'd have to blast to get the Yankee iron man off the spot where he's been spending those pleasant summer afternoons for 12 years. And the Tigers aren't thinking of moving Hank Greenberg—especially after the neat little tempest the Gerry Walker business stirred up.

Fifth... SPECIFY from wire to wire! KING'S HEIR is at least a better ending. DIAYOLO BOY is supposed to have been fooling in his last race.

Sixth... Men have been found wandering in the fields talking to themselves after trying to find winners in events like this. So they're endangering a mentality that is already enfeebled by years of horse-playing. I'll just name HIGH LARK—CAPT. CAL and ROYAL FEAST. Don't blame me if they don't run in the order named.

Seventh... Another wide open one where I fancy GALLACLAY to win. GOLDEN ERA to make him run for it and SWEEPSTAFF as one who might upset the works.

Eighth... Say, are you getting as bored as I am with trying to pick this end of the card? Try to get well on HEART BREAK—FLAGSTONE and MONSWEET.

Chicken today—COUNSELLOR FAL—SPECIFY—COUNT EDWARD.

Feathers tomorrow... HEART-BREAK.

BOXTHORN WILL PACK 124 LBS.

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Boxthorn, the Janns' stable's fleet sprinter, will carry top weight of 124 pounds in the $5000 San Felipe handicap at Santa Anita Saturday.

Assignments for the six-furlong feature include Clingendaal, 122; Bill Farnsworth, 120; and Brown Jade, 117.

The 1938 debut of Scabbard, prospect for the next $10,000 Santa Anita handicap, was disappointing yesterday when Seaver II and Wegoway led him to the finish line in a mile and one-sixteenth race. Seaver II was a 4-to-1 shot in the six-horse event.

M.E. SOUTH, AL FIVES SCORE

In an overtime game, M. E. South's cagers edged out Barr Lumber company, 25-24, last night while Al's Lock and Key Shop club defeated Patterson's Dairy, 23-14, in the Y. M. C. A. finale.

M. E. South trailed during the first three quarters, but knotted the count at 22-22, forcing the tilt to go into the extra session. Horace Rittner was the big gun in the Mustangs' comeback, sinking 11 points.

The double-header tonight pits Treesweet Products against Excelsior Creamery at 7:15, and Wilson's Dairy faces Penhall's of Westminster at 8:30.

His teams have gained the little school national football prominence.

First Base Replacements Are Planned In Majors

NEW YORK. (AP)—There seems to be a consistent move these days toward formation of a "let's get rid-of-our-first baseman" society.

Reports are drifting all over the place about this or that first sacker, who's either going to have an awful time hanging onto his job, or who is already definitely slated for replacement.

Of course, such rumors don't include all the established hands at the spot. Take Lou Gehrig for instance; they'd have to blast to get the Yankee iron man off the spot where he's been spending those pleasant summer afternoons for 12 years. And the Tigers aren't thinking of moving Hank Greenberg—especially after the neat little tempest the Gerry Walker business stirred up.

TO MOVE CAVARETTA. But several other of the varsity first sackers don't look as secure as an infield fly right now. For instance, you have it direct from the Chicago Cub big-wigs that they're still going to try to make a first baseman out of Phil Cavaretta. They've announced that Phil will be the lad for the job and that Ripper Collins, who's somewhat better than a green hand at it, will have to fight for the birth. From the records of recent seasons, it shouldn't be so tough for the Ripper.

And at Washington, they say the club is sold on giving Joe Kuhel's work to Jim Waddell. Jim's the lad who batted for .225 and fielded .995 in a 21-game try-out last season, while Kuhel hit .283 in 135 games, and is still regarded as one of the fastest in getting around his territory.

The Boston Red Sox are toying with the idea of shifting Jimmy Foxx back to the catching assignment—provided, always, that they can come up with someone to take his place on first. Connie Mack might tell them Foxx wasn't altogether a howling success back of the plate in Philadelphia.

Mack appears to have a real find for his athletics in a youngster from the New York-Penn league, Buck Hasson. The whole club is carrying the torch for Hasson, ever since he fielded a perfect 1,000 in 300 chances and hit for better than .300 in a 28-game trial at the tag end of last season.

BROWNS EXPERIMENT. The St. Louis Browns might give Buster Bell, the third year outfielder, a trial to succeed the somewhat less than sensational Harry Davis. That would be a good trick even if it doesn't work. Otherwise, George McQuinn, up from Newark's "wonder team," might fit.

The New York Giants may wind up with Buddy Hassett of the Dodgers or Dolf Camilli of the Phillies, if the price is right, in which event neither Johnny McCarthy nor Sambo Leslie will be doing business at the same old stand, come April. But, to date, there's been little or no progress in dealings.

Incidentally, trades-talked-of, rumored or just pulled out of the hat—may change the status of such other first basemen as Gus Suhr of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

For the Cincinnati Reds, wily Will McKechnie has to use to his magic's tricks. Chuck Dressen didn't have much luck with Les Scarville, Buck Jordan and rookie Frank McCormick last year. Unless McCormick looks somewhat better for his season at Syracuse, wily Will may decide to have a try at the job himself. Who knows?

CLAIM RIDER PULLED LEG OF RIVAL

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—The board of stewards at Santa Anita has suspended Jockey Basil James, one of the country's outstanding jockeys, for the remainder of the winter season here, on charges of interfering with a rival jockey in a race run last Tuesday.

James was the nation's leading jockey in 1936, and brought home more winners last season at Santa Anita than any other rider.

The stewards charged he pulled Jockey Herbert Litzenger's leg twice in the seventh race last Tuesday, thus interfering with the progress of Day Dawn, which finished sixth in a field of nine. James was up on Royal Reigh, which finished last.

James denied the charges vigorously, but the stewards said they summoned corroborating witnesses to the incident.

NEW RULES WOULD AID OLD JOCKEYS

CORAL GABLES, Fla. (AP)—The winter convention of the National Association of State Racing Commissioners entered its last session today after recommending rules to aid older jockeys and to limit early racing of 2-year-olds.

The association recommended that all state commissions adopt a rule setting the minimum weight horses may carry at 103 pounds. Expected to aid older jockeys who hitherto have been forced to undergo strenuous reducing methods to keep in riding trim, the rule would go into effect next April 1.

Today's business included the report of a committee investigating the sponging of race horses, as well as the setting of sites for the next mid-winter and winter association meetings.

MODEST MAIDENS

"Well, if you'll make it for dinner, I can bring along a friend."

TOWNSEND NEWS, VIEWS

By WALTER R. KOB

According to an Associated Press dispatch coming out of Washington on Jan. 10 Representative Harry R. Sheppard, Democratic party congressman from this district, presided over hearings held before a congressional steering committee for the legislation known as the General Welfare act. The dispatch says that "a score of representatives were heard from Massachusetts, Ohio and Florida" on that day. Credit is given Sheppard as having said "the conference will seek to compromise differences among pending old age pension schemes."

This seems to be one of the dispatches which Roy J. Webb said while in Santa Ana, in a mass meeting on Dec. 27, 1937 would be released by Sheppard seeking to discredit Dr. Townsend, if he failed to appear at the hearings which he had been invited to attend. Under subheadlines in black type appears these words "Townsend refuses" and then follows this statement: "Dr. Francis E. Townsend, pension leader, sent a letter to the meeting declining an invitation to attend and asserting participants were attempting to break faith with him and his organization."

It will be remembered how this column has been predicting that during this session of the congress an attempt would be made to substitute an amendment to the Old Age Security act boosting up the monthly assistance offered to the elderly applicants, but substituting for the 2 per cent transaction tax of the Townsend plan some other method of financing. It will be interesting to watch these hearings and see how accurately this column has anticipated what will happen. The concluding portion of the press dispatch already gives evidence that such a move is under way, and the hearings have just begun. It states that "Representative Boileau, Progressive of Wisconsin, told the meeting he believed a gross income tax should be substituted for the transaction levy."

Doubtless as the hearings continue other press dispatches will be released and I am advising my readers to not be surprised if still more severe criticism is given Dr. Townsend by Representative Sheppard and other members of the steering committee over which he is presiding. An attempt will probably be made to make it appear that the Townsend plan founder is not willing to co-operate for the good of "the people of America." It should be remembered that in every instance thus far when an attempt has been made to destroy the Townsend organization that the method used was by way of discrediting the sincerity of the doctor. Faith and confidence in his good purposes could be sufficiently undermined in the minds of his followers then there would naturally follow a disintegration of the Townsend movement which its enemies under cover have always sought. This column continues to predict that a determined fight will continue to be waged against the 2 per cent transaction tax principle of the Townsend plan because it would be instrumental in making high finance contribute proportional to its value of business the financing of the general welfare. He expects to see certain representatives of the people now in congress forced out in the open and their antagonism in the transaction tax method of financing old age annuities made public. He hopes Representative Sheppard will not be included in this number but expects to see administrative pressure exerted along these lines which will be difficult to resist. Somebody has said "to be forewarned is to be forearmed" and that is the reason for this article. The writer wishes his readers to be prepared to resist any attempt made to break up the Townsend movement whether it be through the medium of unjust attacks made on Doctor Townsend or otherwise.

Your attention is again called to the Huntington Beach meeting being held tonight in Memorial hall on Sixth street. A 6:30 a. m. pot-luck supper will be held and at 7:30 a. m. Dr. Marshall, president will call those present to order and a Townsend meeting will be conducted. W. R. Cogswell, San Bernardino newspaperman will be the speaker which insures a good address. SCANDAL BRIDE

CAST OF CHARACTERS
MERIE DRAKE: heroine, poor girl engaged to marry
WILLY VAN VLEET: harem-scarem
GORDON VAN VLEET: Riverton's wealthiest, most prominent citizen
DORIS LAWSON: Willy's cousin, visiting from New York City

CHAPTER SIX
The next morning Merrie read the papers with mixed emotions. She was literally splashed over the front page of every paper she saw. In her wedding gown at the altar, a mischievous smile on her face, playing the drums at the club, dancing with the father of her recalcitrant Willy.

The largest picture was a shadowy one. Merrie, wearing nothing, midway between the diving board and the pool. It was difficult to distinguish details, but there she was, a graceful September Morn, with her arms outstretched instead of modestly down. There she was, a lighter shadow against blackness, slimmer curved, poetry in suspended motion.

"JILTED HEADLINES" But it was the headlines which astounded Merrie. In great black letters the world was informed that Meredith Drake had been jilted by Willy VanVleet of the VanVleet millions. The she had turned the affair into a mad riot, that she had received a quarter of a million by threatening to sue for twice that amount, that she was en route to New York, there to spend her husbandless honeymoon.

"Much was made of the 'scandal dive.' Much was made of her beauty and daring, much was prophesied concerning her visit to Manhattan.

Every person in the train flaunted a newspaper. Old and young heads alike were bent over the astounding news. Merrie crouched in a corner of her seat. In mid-afternoon the conductor walked slowly through the train. He carried a telegram in his hand. "Merrie Drake," he inquired politely of every young woman, politely but with burning curiosity. He was followed by a line of expectant travelers.

They crowded and murmured. "She's on this train. Imagine—she's on this train. Push up there in front—give us a look. Do you suppose she actually made that dive? She's on this train."

Merrie considered ignoring the telegram, but the conductor stopped beside her compartment and the crowding and pushing took on the earmarks of a mild panic. Persons came from the opposite direction. The word had spread. Merrie took the message and turned a cold shoulder to the on-lookers.

"Am holding my breath until you get here," she read. "Have the key to the city in my pocket." It was signed, "Curt."

Merrie raised doubtful eyes to the packed aisle. Then she dimpled. Later she gave interviews and wrote her name in autographic books. Merrie Drake was famous.

Although it was early morning when she arrived in New York the Grand Central station was jammed to capacity. Outside the gates policemen held back the crowd of curiosity seekers and news men.

Curt Rawson broke from the first line and dashed to Merrie's side. She greeted him joyously. She had begun to feel rather alone in spite of the attentions of her fellow passengers. As they shook hands cameras clicked and they moved together between a line of none too discreet comments.

"There she is—the little girl with the good looking man. Say—she didn't waste much time, did she? Do you suppose she really pulled off her dress and made that dive—right before God and all that way?"

"They say she didn't have a stitch on under her wedding gown. Cute little dame isn't she? Does me good to see one gal who doesn't give a hoot if she is left waiting at the church. They say she gouged half a million out of the fellow's father." And so it went.

Reporters crowded in around Merrie and Curt. She smiled and answered their questions.

"Morning, Miss Drake. Mind giving us the low down on this Riverton affair?"

"Not at all," graciously. "Were you at the church already to midday aisle it?"

"Yes," with an amused twinkle. "And what happened—if you don't mind?"

"I received a message. The bridegroom had eloped."

"And are we to understand, that you carried on without a bridegroom?"

"Why not? He was really quite unimportant."

"And the dive at the Country club—?"

"Oh, that—?" Dimples deepened in both cheeks. "I couldn't take a dare, could I? Taking Curt's arm she started to push through the throng."

"Just one more thing—please. What are you doing in New York?"

"IS HONEYMOONING" Merrie looked surprised. "I'm honeymooning," she said, and everyone within earshot laughed. It was a good natured laugh. She was so young and pretty and doing something so different. She was a diversion.

Another reporter edged in. "Is it true that you threatened to sue Gordon VanVleet for a cool million unless he came across?"

"No," with a quick little laugh at such an absurdity. "Mr. VanVleet and I are friends."

"But he did make a settlement on you?" insistently.

"Of course."

"How much?" Half a dozen shot the question at her.

"Plenty." Again she moved away. "That all boys." Over her shoulder she dimpled at them. "Can't a girl have her honeymoon in peace?"

While she talked to the reporters Merrie noticed a young man who stood out from the broad steps. Perhaps her attention was drawn to him as he was the only person in the huge depot who seemed to have no interest in the arrival of Merrie Drake.

He was engrossed in a news paper, not the front page, she made sure of that, but the sport section.

Again and again Merrie's eyes strayed back to him. He was big and blond, he wore his clothes well, somehow he made Curt appear small and insignificant.

Merrie and Curt had breakfast. Afterward they went to a bank and he identified her. She opened an account and received a folder of blank checks.

It was almost funny to see Curt's avid interest in her businesslike arrangements. It might have been because of Edna's prying that Merrie had learned to be secretive. Whatever the reason, Curt left the bank in ignorance as to the amount she had deposited.

When he leaned over her she said, "Curt, you make me fidgety. I'm not a babe in arms. I can attend to this." There was nothing for him to do but laugh and gracefully withdraw.

From the bank they took a taxi to the Franklin Manor on Park Avenue. Willy had said that his father and mother stayed at the Franklin Manor when in New York.

For a honeymoon what could be better? Merrie signed her name and the manager bustled up to greet her. He was fairly bursting with cordiality. He himself showed her several suites and she decided upon one overlooking the park.

It had a delightful living room, a bedroom like a moving picture set, a very small kitchen with a very large refrigerator, a maid's bedroom and two baths, one of them the last word in chromium plate and orchid tiles, the other more modest.

The trunk of this abode was staggering but Merrie turned over a hair. The little folder of blank checks in her purse was insurance against turning hairs.

When the manager had bowed himself double and backed out of the apartment Merrie turned to Curt.

"I feel like the princess in a fairy story," she laughed. "And isn't it just dandy that Willy decided not to come along? He would be simply in the way, that's all—simply in the way."

"Check and double check," Curt tried to draw her into his arms. Without making an issue of it she put the coffee table between them.

"Did you hear me say that I'm mad about you the other night?" he inquired, bending his most dazzling smile upon her.

"I heard you but I discounted it 60 per cent." Taking off her hat she walked to the door and opened it.

"Run along, Curt. I want to make a sensational dive into that tub in there," nodding her curly head toward the bathroom. "Afterwards I must be shopping—I want heads and bushels of clothes."

BUY A FORMAL

"Be sure to buy a formal first of all," he said, looking vaguely disappointed. Merrie was as slippery as an eel. By all the rules she should be in a bemused state of love by this time.

"I'm taking you to the Starlit Roof tonight. It's the hottest spot in town and you'll love it."

"Swell," she gurgled. "You're something pretty grand, Curt."

He fingered his hat brim. "By the way, you'll want a car and a riding horse and a string of pearls and half a dozen diamonds—"

He looked embarrassed. "I wish I could get these things for you—a man likes to buy things for the girl he loves—but I can't—I'm only a poor boy trying to get along—"

"Don't be silly, Curt. I have money for everything I want."

"I can do this for you and save you a lot of trouble. I know just the car for you and it's a honey—and a friend of mine wants to sell his horse before going abroad—and jewels—say, I'm the best jewel picker out

NEW JAYSEE SITE BATTLE LINES DRAWN

LIGHT CHANGE ON S. MAIN BATTLED

Plenty of heat was turned on the street light issue today as Orson H. Hunter, aggressive South Main street furniture merchant, threatened to circulate petitions opposing the proposed change in lamp standards.

"South Main street is zoned for business and it should be lighted for business," he told The Journal. Removal of the ornamental standard heads from the present post was rapped by Hunter as "a costly waste."

"We property owners paid for these heads, and there is no good reason why they should be junked and another costly head substituted."

As business property, the buildings and sidewalks along the thoroughfare are entitled to as much illumination as the street, Hunter said he and his friends believed.

Blame for allegedly poor lighting along the highway was placed on trees which obstruct the lamps and on the insufficient candlepower of the bulbs.

City officials, following fatal accidents on poorly lighted streets, this week announced that lamp standards along South Main street would be lowered.

"If they try it, I'll get 100 business men to sign petitions and block the move," warned Hunter.

I Just Found Out About SAVI

—By—
MILLARD BROWNE

Five and a half billion gallons of water flow through a concrete pipe network in the Santa Ana area every year—but the only surface signs of it you'll see are the little square boxes and tall, round ones standing sentinel in nearby ranchers' orange groves.

The concrete boxes help control and measure irrigation water distributed by the Santa Ana Valley Irrigation company, which provides lifeblood for more than 16,000 acres farmed by 2110 ranchers.

All these ranchers are SAVI members, are represented in the mutual water company on a basis of one share of stock for each acre of land to be irrigated.

Though water's cheap (ranchers get 66,000 gallons of it for $1), it costs members an average of $10 a year to irrigate an acre, which makes the SAVI about a $160,000-a-year business.

The Santa Ana Valley company is organized like the Anaheim Union, and the two of them furnish the lion's share of irrigation water for Orange county farmers, though there are half a dozen other companies in the county.

More than 200 miles of pipe, nearly all of which was made at SAVI's own plant, now comprise the company's underground system. Only above-ground evidence is eight miles of open ditch in Santa Ana canyon and the measuring boxes and vent pipes in member's groves.

The square concrete boxes you may see as you drive along most Orange county highways house measuring devices and gadgets that turn controlled streams of water on and off in farms and orchards (most irrigated land being orange groves).

The tall pipes are used two ways. In some cases they're just vents to let air out. Water surges full in the pipes one time, half full another time, and it would build up terrific air pressure if there were no such outlets. Other principal use for the tall pipes is to put them at the foot of a grove back water in them to build up uniform pressure all along a certain section of pipe before turning water into groves. It gives more uniform control of outlet gates.

Organized in 1877, the valley irrigation company used nothing but gravity water (from springs, creeks and the Santa Ana river) until 1922, when pumps were put in to replenish the decreasing supply of gravity water.

Now more than 50 per cent of the water used annually is supplied by pumping from 18 wells grouped in Santa Ana canyon, near Olive and along the Santiago creek. Three booster plants take most of the pumped water back into SAVI's main ditch, and from there it's diverted into an intake pipe which branches into 48 and 90-inch mains at Olive. From there pipe diminishes in size, according to the load, down to 12 inches.

Combining pump and gravity water, there's plenty to go around nowadays. Once, though, it had to be pro-rated, so much to the acre.

Orders are taken every day at SAVI headquarters in Orange, where six water turners (they're still called zanjeros, though, Spanish word for ditchers, has been antiquated) convene each noon to map the day's water flow, divert the heaviest stream down whichever pipe is routed where orders come in.

Water-turning is a 24-hour service, most of the night flow going to big acreages where the water can run from dusk 'til dawn. Even in rush times, water is available for ranchers within two or three days after the order is placed.

Head zanjero is George Ragdale of Orange; his assistants are George Huffman and W. B. Hayes, Santa Ana, and C. C. Gullede, Frank Pister, Taylor Bush and Purl Shell, all of Orange.

Peak irrigation season is from May to September, which is low point in the supply of gravity water. The boosters price from 40 cents a "head" during this time of year when water is plentiful to about $1 a "head" in summer, "head" being just a term of measurement.

It amounts to 66,000 gallons or 820 cubic feet, is based on an hour's flow at a rate of 100 million inches (the amount that flows through a hole 33 1/2 inches wide, three inches deep, under four inches of pressure). The miner's inch measurement comes from early-day hydraulic mining. Average price of SAVI water by acre feet, the way some irrigation companies figure it, is just under $5.

Through the Santa Ana River Development company, owned jointly by SAVI and Anaheim Union, the Santa Ana company owns half interest in lands riparian to the Santa Ana river from Prado to the Rubidoux bridge, gets most of its gravity water there.

A cooperative venture, the SAVI has no bonded indebtedness, observes a pay-as-you-go schedule. For that reason, original ditchers were built by farmers-members themselves, since have been replaced by company pipe-lines financed out of operating revenues.

Acreage serviced by SAVI has decreased slightly since it was organized. That's because there's no practical way for it to extend its boundaries to make up the acreage lost by subdivision of residence property. About 1000 acres have been subdivided in the past 20 years, officials estimate.

When lands are taken out of cultivation, owners are required to sign affidavits saying they'll never need irrigation water before pipe-lines can be destroyed.

WELFARE TO MEET

Santa Ana General Welfare Center will meet this evening at 7:30 in the Unitarian church, Sixth and Bush streets. Rev. C. P. Alexander of Corona will be the speaker. Former officers of the center were re-elected at the last meeting: Frank Kendall, president; J. A. Holmberg, vice president; H. F. Kenny, secretary, and James O'Brien, treasurer. Members elected to the advisory board were W. D. Bernard, C. H. Scott, A. E. Rider, H. T. Jones and J. G. Hoefler. The public is invited to the meeting this evening.

COURT ROUTINE

Twelve overtime parking cases, one speeding fine and three charges of failure to make boulevard stops were the only traffic business in Santa Ana police court yesterday. Robert L. Fromm, Santa Ana, paid $10 in the speeding case.

LEMON CROP CUT SHARPLY BY FREEZE

Lemon production was curtailed 46 per cent by last January's freeze, reports of the Central Lemon association indicated today. In this district, Manager Roy Runnells said, many growers suffered a 100 per cent loss.

The total association pick for the year was 206,231 field boxes, including 57,141 boxes of frozen fruit, sent directly to the association's by-products plant.

Results of the freeze necessitated installation of a citrus x-ray machine for grading fruit, which materially increased costs to the growers, the association said, but repaid the expenditure by allowing the salvage of several cars of fruit which otherwise might have been lost.

Returns, F. O. B., for fruit sold were $348,685.29, including loose fruit sales and returns from by-products. From the 149,090 boxes washed and stored, 69,937 boxes were packed and sold, and the equivalent of 9301 boxes was sold as loose fruit.

One outstanding result of the year's problems, Runnells said, was proof of the "inestimable value" of the by-products plant in salvaging of unmarketable fruit. Forecasts for the ensuing year indicate the crop will be approximately 75 per cent normal.

CHINA FUND PLEA ILLEGAL

Solicitations for funds from the "International Red Cross Committee" for central China are irregular and illegal, local Red Cross officials warned today.

Use of the name "Red Cross" is improper, they said, although "unintentional."

Protests have been made to heads of the China welfare workers, and to the Chinese ambassador in Washington, it was announced, and the use of the name probably will be discontinued. Contributions to the cause can be made through regular chapters of the American Red Cross, however, through authority granted by National Chairman Cary T. Grayson.

(By Associated Press)

TOO LATE. NEW YORK.—For the first time in weeks, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Danielson and their two children had enough to eat—but they had no appetite.

Monday Mrs. Danielson applied at a relief bureau for aid. When she returned home their three-month-old daughter, Barbara, was dead—from malnutrition, the assistant medical examiner said.

Tuesday the food arrived—by the backstreet.

Today police were raising funds to bury Barbara.

IN A STEW. DALLAS.—Beautiful, a pedigreed rooster, was probably the meaty part of a stew today.

The deadline for his release by payment of $25 ransom passed yesterday night and Attorney Maury Hughes, his owner, feared the worst.

Hughes had been instructed to place $25 in a tin can at a spot in the residential section. Failure to follow instructions, the ransom said, would place Beautiful in a stew pot.

Hughes knew the "roosternappers" were on the level—they inclosed two of Beautiful's tail feathers with their note.

NO WONDER. REBOS, Tex.—For 20 years Miss Reba Foster, 27, suffered from appendicitis.

WAGE INCREASE SEEN BY SAVANT

Increases in wages may offset decreases in production that are setting in throughout the United States, Professor Voorhies, is reported by H. E. Wahlberg, Orange county farm advisor, as recently telling persons attending the Agricultural Extension Service convention at Berkeley.

"There are definite indications the income from farming operations will be lower in the present year than they were in 1937, but there is another side to this, inasmuch as the country's export business may benefit by the lower volume of European crops," Voorhies is quoted as saying.

The discussion came about after Voorhies told extension service men loan applications by University of California students have increased by 50 per cent over what they were last year, indicative of a downturn in the economic trend.

PURCHASE OF TUSTIN PLANT PROMOTED

Union High School Building Available

Meeting of the school and citizens' committee next Monday to outline tentative plans for a new junior college will be no love feast, it was indicated today.

Representatives of the southern half of Orange county entered the fight today with a demand that school authorities outline plans for establishment of the college plant at Tustin, presumably as centrally located for a projected Southern County junior college district.

J. W. Sauer, spokesman for the group, pointed to results of a meeting of southern county school districts held two years ago, at which it was determined the best location for the new plant would be between South Main street and Newport road.

Sauer added that the Tustin Union High school building would be available as a "holding" school for use as the first adjunct of the plant, pointing out that attendance there had dropped from more than 600 to 225, "with no prospects for increase."

"This problem and the responsibility for its solution rest with the taxpayer," he said. "It appears that there is a real opportunity to arrange plans for a junior college with a minimum amount of money involved, and by purchasing the Tustin buildings and equipment have a school second to none."

Results of the southern county joint meeting, Sauer pointed out, indicated it would be impossible to float a bond issue that would be adequate to provide funds; that it was the unanimous opinion of the group that a "college" should be located outside the city; that the college should be centrally located to serve the entire southern end of the county.

Indications were that the group, through Sauer, would request the school board to order an appraisal of the present Tustin school, and estimates of the cost of erecting a new school to take care of Tustin's needs, as the first step in outlining plans for the new plant.

The committees will meet at noon Monday at the high school, on call of Chairman George Wells of the school board. They have indicated there would be no discussion of possible sites for the structure at this first meeting.

Pastor, Wife Honored At Reception

As a compliment to the Rev. and Mrs. Harry Evan Owings, members of the church last night entertained them at an informal reception given in the parsonage, 1018 Spurgeon street, with about 150 friends calling during evening hours.

Greeting guests at the door were the Rev. and Mrs. Owings, Mrs. Russell Crouse and Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Bell. They were assisted by Dr. Frederick Dean and Edward Oppen. In keeping with the informal nature of the affair, the three ladies wore street-length frocks, with Mrs. Owings in dark red velvet, Mrs. Crouse in aquamarine crepe and Mrs. Bell in royal blue velvet.

Throughout the home decorations had been arranged, with all appointments in varying shades of fuchsia. On the long table was a mirror plaque holding a large bowl of flowers in the harmonizing shades. At either side were silver candelsticks holding tall tapers in the same colors and bright silver leaves.

The buffet was similarly decorated, with a beautiful orchid cyclamen plant sent by Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth King centering around a mirror plaque. A huge basket of flowers had been sent by the deacons of the church, and a lovely corsage of spring flowers in matching shades was presented to Mrs. Owings by members of the Woman's club of the church.

Mrs. J. Leslie Steffenson was in charge of the musical program presented at intervals throughout the evening, with Miss Mame Havens playing incidental music between solo selections. Mrs. Nalle sang, with the accompaniment of her mother, Mrs. Charles Nalle. Miss Betty Jo Willets delivered several interesting readings, and Miss Anna May Archer played 'cello numbers, accompanied by Miss Audrey Pieper. Miss Mildred Marchant accompanied herself in several whistling solos, and J. Leslie Steffenson sang. In the last group were selections by Miss Nina June Robertson and Horace Evans, both accompanied by Miss Elsa Mae Hoxsie.

Mrs. Kenneth King acted as general chairman of the annual event, with the assistance of a capable group of committee chairmen. Aiding her were Miss May Rose Borum, programs; Mrs. Lawrence Coffman and Mrs. Luther C. Davidson, flower arrangements; Mrs. J. H. Wood, Mrs. Fred Fink, Mrs. William Hemmen and Mrs. A. N. Delighting his audience with an unusually delicate and understanding interpretation of each number on his program, James Beal presented a recital of piano music for the pleasure of Musical Arts club members and their guests Tuesday evening.

The capacious Gustlin Studio was filled completely, with a number of Long Beach and Pasadena guests, music lovers who had come to Santa Ana for the opportunity to hear the talented young pianist. Beal is a graduate of the Oberlin Conservatory, and recently spent a year studying in Paris.

Technique was excellent in his renditions, and the choice of numbers was in perfect taste to suit the highly discriminatory character of his audience, many of whom were themselves musicians.

Delightful too were the intermission numbers, readings presented by Mrs. Constance Layman, a cousin of Mrs. Charles Nalle.

Mrs. Layman gave several entertaining dialect numbers, and several to musical accompaniment.

Numbers played by Mr. Beal included three Bach preludes and fugues; a Schumann number, 'Ballades'; two Chopin selections, and a charming trio of Debussy compositions.

Mary Stoddard

Wife, Guilty of Mental Philandering, Seeks Means of Stopping Habit

It is beyond my comprehension how a wife, or a husband can philander and remain under the same roof with the other—

A wife who does just this thinks I can "straighten her out." She's 25 and has children. If she would stop long enough to ask herself: "Do I want my boy or girl to grow into a deceitful, double-dealing adult because I have set that example?" it might help to put her back in the right road.

Her letter follows:
Dear Miss Stoddard: I have read your columns for years and now I'm coming to you knowing that if anyone can straighten me out, you can.

I have been married seven years, have two darling children and a good husband. He loves his home and the kids, and I guess he loves me—I don't know and I don't care much. He has one fault that drives me wild—he's a nagger. The worst kind, but that is no excuse for me and I know it. My husband works nights and if I go out I must go alone. Over a year ago I met a man "married" and fell like a 16-year-old girl. In a few months it wore off as all silly affairs do, and I wondered what I ever saw him. I thought I had learned a lesson and forgot about it.

Now it has happened all over again. This time it's a boy my own age. I have never been so happy as I am now, even my husband feels it and kids me about it. I want to know what is wrong with me? Why am I not like other wives and mothers? My home and children should fill my life and thoughts—why don't they?

Miss Stoddard, I don't mean to imply that I am unfaithful in the full sense of the word. I am not or have I ever been, but how much longer will I be able to say that? I am 25. I'm not a moron, and I'm ashamed that I have a problem like this to tell anyone, but there it is! Thanks.

RESTLESS.
You are untrue to your husband in your thoughts. You must feel that it will only be a short time at the rate you are going until you will lose all sense of moral values. Perhaps you can straighten yourself out if you will look at the other side of the picture. How do you suppose other wives and mothers guide the wheel of matrimony to avoid the rocks you are so dangerously near approaching?

First of all, their sense of loyalty to the man they chose to be the father of their children would forbid that they stray in strange pastures. Perhaps the reason your husband "nags" is because he feels your infidelity. It's the new leaf? Why not devote your evenings to your children and your home and spend an afternoon a week among other wives and mothers?

Remember this always: A man young or old, married or single merely regards a married woman who plays around as cheap. He figures if she doesn't carry on a flirtation with him she will with someone else. He has no respect for her in his innermost heart because he realizes that she is not playing the game square with the man who is supporting her.

EDISON P.T.A.
Edison P.T.A. will have a benefit moving picture show Tuesday at 7 p. m. with Judge Kenworthy. There will be a small charge, and ice cream and candy will be sold.

COOK CHEESE SLOWLY
Cheese dishes require slow cooking. Otherwise the cheese will come ropey and difficult to digest. Macaroni and cheese, cheese fondue and omelets all require moderate oven. Toasted sandwiches should be cooked only until the cheese softens.

STAIN REMOVER
Use an eraser of the spongy type for removing small smudges on wall paper and light-colored wood-work. Work quickly, in up and down strokes. Wipe off the fragments of eraser with a soft, clean cloth.

TO SELECT TURKEYS
Choose the turkey which has few pin feathers and no blemishes on its skin. A young turkey has well-rounded contours, clear color and a flexible breast bone. A "blue" tint indicates insufficient fat layers under the skin.

Mothers' Tea Given For Gitanas

Because Miss Betty West is just completing a most successful term as president of Las Gitanas Santa Ana, Junior college women's service club, she took occasion yesterday afternoon to entertain members of the club and their mothers with a delightful informal tea in her home, 1210 North Ross street. She was assisted in all her hosting duties by her mother, Mrs. Z. B. West.

A red and white motif had been carried out in decorations, with the lace covered tea table centered with a low white bowl of miniature poinsettias. At either end were silver branched candelabra with red tapers. On the buffet was a pottery madona and low candles reflected in a mirror plaque. Large bowls of poinsettias were used throughout the rest of the home.

Presiding at the two silver tea urns were Mrs. Robert Northcross, jaycee dean of women, and Miss Agness Todd Miller, assistant dean. They were assisted by Miss Muriel Anderson and Miss Carol Erskine, advisors of the club. Other assistants included Miss Jean Mulbar, Miss Eleanor Cogan, Mrs. Charles Cogan, and Mrs. West's mother, Mrs. M. A. Yarnell.

Included among the group who called during the afternoon were the Mesdames A. L. Rasmussen, C. A. Nalle, M. Bronson, George Krock, J. C. Coombs, H. M. Nelson, Dora Rogers, F. B. Perkins, M. A. Warner, H. T. Warner, A. H. Meyer, S. H. Bradley, A. E. Curran, R. D. Flaherty, W. C. Goodwin, Herbert Witt, Leslie Pearson, all of Santa Ana; G. A. Luz, R. A. Chaffee, D. S. Jordan, W. V. Presenting were the Mesdames G. W. Rasmussen, Jane Nalle, Mildred McCullough, Justine Krock, Barbara Coombs, Florence Nelson, Violet Rogers, Mary Perkins, Helen Warner, Barbara Warner, Helen Meyer, Betty Bradley, Ruth Erskine, J. O. # DAIRY CATTLE FREE FROM DISEASES

SACRAMENTO. (AP)—Officials of the state division of animal industry today expressed the hope that all dairy cattle in the state will have been tuberculin tested at least once and that most of the counties will have been declared tuberculosis free by the close of 1938.

Thirty-six California counties have been accredited, the state division of animal industry chief, Dr. C. U. Duckworth, said, and approximately 90 federal and state veterinarians are at work testing cattle for tubercular germs.

At present but two states re-not been accredited by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. In one of those states, South Dakota, work is progressing rapidly, and it is believed federal assistance it is believed federal recognition will be extended soon. California will then be the only state without an official accreditation to show that less than one half of one percent of its dairy cattle are diseased.

Orange, Los Angeles, Fresno
Tulare, Stanislaus, Merced, Calaveras

Re-testing is being done in these counties: Santa Clara, Marin, and Sonoma, with re-testing soon to begin in Sutter, Yuba, Butte, Sacramento, and San Joaquin counties.

Rapid progress has been made. Dr. Duckworth said all through the use of a state appropriation of $1,500,000 made by the 1933 session of the legislature, the state funds being matched by federal funds.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS

By JOHN HIX

SCIENCE'S HEADQUARTERS... Stored away in an underground vault with all the care of a gold hoard lie the standard "yardsticks" of the world—the international prototype meter and kilogram of the international bureau of weights and measures in France.

From these two platinum-iridium standard measures are copied similar standard in nearly every civilized country of the world. By agreement with the French government, the land on which the international bureau is built, 6,264 acres in extent, is the international property of all nations participating in the scientific alliance.

The following governments are represented: Argentina, Austria, Belgium, Bulgaria, Canada, Chile, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, Finland, France and Algeria, Germany, Great Britain, Hungary, Irish Free State, Italy, Japan, Mexico, Norway, Peru, Poland, Portugal, Rumania; Serbs, Croats and Slovenes; Siam, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, U.S.S.R., United States and Uruguay.

So long as the international bureau continues to function, the tiny plot of land will remain international property; else it will revert to the French government.

Investigate From Cellar to Garret

News of Police Chief Howard's indictment by a federal grand jury on a charge of "feloniously combining and conspiring to unlawfully import for sale in the United States from a foreign country lottery tickets prohibited by United States code" comes as a shock and surprise.

Chief Howard vigorously denies the charge and, under the law of the land, is presumed innocent until proven guilty in court.

The mere fact that federal authorities have enough evidence to secure indictment, however, makes the matter serious.

Until he can demonstrate his innocence before a jury, suspicion is bound to rest upon the chief in the eyes of the public, and embarrassment involves the police department and city administration, as well as the citizens of Santa Ana.

So, because of Howard's official position, the case becomes one which in a measure affects the whole community.

Under the circumstances, Chief Howard and city officials would be wise, we believe, to insist upon a speedy trial and settlement of the whole matter.

If this cannot be obtained, the chief should voluntarily step out of the picture and retire until the final verdict is reached. A police chief should be above even a breath of suspicion of dealing in a crooked transaction.

The Journal is making no assumption about the outcome of the case. Nor is it going to discuss the merits of the matter until it is decided; that is for the judge, the jury and witnesses to do.

Nevertheless, to call a spade a spade, there has been a lot of smoke seeping out of the gambling trash pile in Orange county lately, and this seems like a good time to get to the bottom of the whole matter.

Conditions have brought many complaints to The Journal.

"Bookies" are operating openly, marble machines and punchboards come and go; and the activities of gambling clubs are no secret.

Whether Chief Howard is innocent or not of the particular federal charges, city council and the supervisors should take the whole gambling matter in hand and investigate the set-up from cellar to garret.

Lookie Who's From Moscow

Well, sir, can you imagine the shock? Leafing through Mrs. Elizabeth Dilling's book, "The Red Network," we discovered the name of former President Glenn Frank of the University of Wisconsin, who has accepted the job of keynoting the Republican party out of the political wilderness.

Mr. Frank is listed among those suspected by Mrs. Dilling of being hand in glove with the Communists, arm in arm with Moscow. So "red" did she consider him that she gave him a special two-page section. He was on a committee to free Mooney and Billings. He was a vice president of the American Society for Old Age Security and of the Fellowship of Faith National Committee of 300. After commenting on various occurrences at the University of Wisconsin, Mrs. Dilling adds:

"One who has paid 'particular attention' to Glenn Frank is not surprised that he thought it necessary to announce publicly that he is not a Communist, and that he believes in God."

But if Mrs. Dilling now wants to crusade to protect the American home, flag and religion against the Moscow-controlled G.O.P. she'll have to do it without help from us.

And we fear that his fault, as a Republican Moses, is not that he's a radical but that he's too pleasant, too casual and a little too much a fence-sitter to do the kind of a job that party needs.

This citation of a good American proves only that Mrs. Dilling and many other red-baiters are writers of fairy tales for grown-ups.

Don't Worry, Mr. Quinn

John R. Quinn, former national commander of the American Legion, has spurned the insignia of the Legion of Honor awarded him by the French government.

Mr. Quinn objects because other national commanders received the rank of "commander" in the Legion, while he is proffered only that of "officer." He says: "It would have been a concession of inferiority of service, which I did not care to make, if I accepted the insignia of an officer, a lower grade."

We hope Mr. Quinn won't lose any sleep about this. France is a grand country. But we don't think any American should worry over what its diplomats do or don't do in honoring Americans.

If all the stuffed shirts who stayed far away from the Western Front and who belong to the Legion of Honor were placed end to end, they'd reach to the next war.

Mr. Quinn did serve on the Western Front, and he is entirely right in rejecting an "honor" that means nothing. We just wish he had given a better reason.

The Country Needs Him

We know that we speak for millions of American citizens in expressing the hope that Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo will recover speedily from his present serious illness, and will be able to return soon to the bench of the United States supreme court.

Mr. Justice Cardozo, appointed less than six years ago, has been in much more than name the successor of the great Oliver Wendell Holmes. He has carried on the same liberal tradition. A profound scholar, a philosopher in the truest sense, he has interpreted the Constitution as a charter of human rights and economic liberty. Gentle and shy as he is, he has won the admiration even of those who opposed his appointment.

Mr. Justice Cardozo is still young in mind and spirit at 67. We hope he may be spared for many more years of useful service.

The national deficit is getting so big it almost takes a comptroller to tell it from the budget.

FAIR Enough

Lost Art Of Keeping Mouth Shut

By Westbrook Pegler

In sharp contrast to our own Dale Carnegie and the Advertising club of New York, which has announced a similar and, apparently, a rival course in public speaking, Gen. Von Unruh of the Nazi army, has seriously advocated special training for the German nation in the lost art of keeping quiet. The general's purpose is to prepare a whole people to keep a still tongue, and he speaks of silence as a science.

Mr. Carnegie, on the other hand, has taught thousands of bashful Americans to rear up in meeting and break the chains of reticence, and his friend, Lowell Thomas, president of the Advertising club writes: "Nothing places one ahead of other men so quickly or surely as the ability to address an audience effectively."

Although Mr. Carnegie and the Advertising club both disclaim any intention to create orators, there is reason for fear that they are giving medicine more dangerous than they know.

The orator begins with no more sinister purpose than to wow them at the next meeting of the sales organization or the neighborhood improvement league, but it is an established fact that in too many cases once a man or woman has heard the sound of his own voice from a flag-raped desk or soap box thereafter when he opens his lips let no dog bark. As a result, the national political conventions in this country have become horrors of incoherent braying and death when his cabin caught fire Friday night, this morning were ordered held for investigation by a coroner's jury at an inquest conducted by Coroner Winkler. The men—William Wylie and Alfred Allen—admitted quarreling with Henicker but denied all knowledge of the subsequent death or fire.

TEMPTATION GREAT

The temptation to sound off is so great that at this moment many persons with nothing to add to the controversy between Frank Hague and the CIO are feeling themselves to be personally persecuted and their constitutional rights to be denied because they wouldn't be allowed to orate in Jersey City if they were in Jersey City, although they happen to be in Santa Ana, with no means of getting to Jersey City.

Nazi Germany has never yet produced an idea which could be wholly indorsed by any believer in freedom, but there is something about Gen. Von Unruh's proposal which arouses a faint wish to agree.

The trouble with his suggestion is twofold. It would continue to suppress all dissenting opinion and train the German nation to admire docility toward things which not even all the oratory that beats against the ears of Americans could adequately condemn. And it expects from its provisions the very men, such as Hitler and Goebbels, whose silence in times past have saved civilization and whose silence, starting now, might restore it.

On second thought, I am afraid I must admit that I did Frank Hague a slight injustice in commenting on his speech against the CIO, for I said, in effect, that no worse speech had ever been heard. That calls for a finer decision than any man should undertake to reach off hand.

ANOTHER AS BAD

It was a powerful bad speech, but that it outwitted many orations which are to be heard in congress and the state legislatures in the coming conventions and in citizens' rallies just as routine oratory is not to be decided by one person's casual judgment. It was no worse, in fact, than a speech by Mr. Hague himself at the last Democratic convention in Philadelphia, which concluded with the remark: "I thank you, my friends, for the privilege of listening to Frank Hague, mayor of Jersey City."

Yet it is to be doubted that Mr. Carnegie or the Advertising club of New York can improve the quality of public address merely by subjecting patients to a course of hazing or embarrassment and thus teaching them to overcome the natural reluctance of the normal human creature to bring up his voice and let it resound. The question still remains whether he has anything to say that hasn't been better said before. And the danger still exists that, having learned to respond, he will do so at great length and with gestures and a class-taught repertoire of scowls, sneers, leers and condescending smiles for no other reason than to strut his accomplishment. Oratory should not ask that.

If I might chance a suggestion it would be that Mr. Carnegie and the Advertising club of New York arrange an exchange of professors with the Nazis, ours to teach the German people to use a voice too skilled already in the art of silence and theirs to instruct our irrepressible windjammers in the art of saying nothing in no words.

EVERYDAY MOVIES

"Well, if you're sure you see untold wealth for me, I'm going to buy that fur coat."

Twenty-Five Years Ago

JAN. 13, 1913

Supervisors of several California counties who were to have been guests of the Orange county board tomorrow were in a railroad wreck near San Diego yesterday in which some were bruised and slightly injured, the engineer killed, fireman badly scalded and a brakeman seriously hurt. The special train had passed through Santa Ana a few hours before it was derailed.

Two men who were with Henry Henicker, who was burned to death when his cabin caught fire Friday night, this morning were ordered held for investigation by a coroner's jury at an inquest conducted by Coroner Winkler. The men—William Wylie and Alfred Allen—admitted quarreling with Henicker but denied all knowledge of the subsequent death or fire.

WASHINGTON.—Judge Robert W. Archibald, judge of the commerce court, was found guilty this afternoon by a senate vote of 68 to 5. Sitting as a board of impeachment, the senate closed a long trial by voting a guilty verdict against the jurist. A motion was offered that he be removed from the bench and be forever ineligible to hold public office, but the senate went into executive session to discuss the motion.

I'll Tell You

By BOB BURNS

The police in a big city like this have sure got a tough job. During a recent drive, when they were rounding up all suspicious characters, by happen to be riding in with one of the policemen and we passed right by a big innocent looking businessman who had just finished putting on a deal that would bankrupt nine firms.

The policeman didn't pay any attention to him because he didn't look a bit suspicious, but in the next block, we saw a little old man sneak out of a house with a frightened look and when the officer collared him and shook him a couple of times, the little old man confessed that he was trying to sneak out of the house so his wife wouldn't make him wash the dishes.

IT'S ODD But It's Science

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Writer
NEW YORK.—Why does flowing water erode the outside bank of a bend?

Because the water is flowing faster there than along the opposite bank. The question still remains whether he has anything to say that hasn't been better said before. And the danger still exists that, having learned to respond, he will do so at great length and with gestures and a class-taught repertoire of scowls, sneers, leers and condescending smiles for no other reason than to strut his accomplishment. Oratory should not ask that.

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

Supreme court appointee will be western; Donald Richberg has chance; still is close to FDR but New Deal doesn't like him. The special train had passed through Santa Ana a few hours before it was derailed.

WASHINGTON.—You can chalk it up as fairly certain that the man who fills Justice Sutherland's shoes will come from the West—even if it is only as far west as Chicago. This is because the two supreme court resignations during Roosevelt's administration were made by men from Wyoming (Van Devanter) and from Utah (Sutherland).

Irony of fate is that had they not fought Roosevelt's supreme court bill, either Senator Wheeler of Montana or Senator O'Mahoney of Wyoming could have walked away with Sutherland's job. They would have fitted into the picture perfectly.

Getting down to specific persons, the President would like to reward Stanley Reed, the 50-year-old general, but it is more likely that he will want to appoint him to McReynolds' place when the Tennessee resigns. Reed comes from Kentucky. Incidentally, he has established a remarkable record of winning supreme court decisions, having scored his fifteenth consecutive victory for the government last week.

DONALD RICHBERG

One man to keep an eye on particularly is Donald Richberg, one-time partner of General Johnson in flapping the Blue Eagle's wings, later his successor. Don Richberg's greatest ambition is to sit on the supreme court. Although he has alienated his old Railway Brotherhood friends, for whom he was once counsel, plus a good many other people, he has not alienated the President.

In fact, Richberg had a hand in writing Roosevelt's last message to Congress (the other ghost-writing having been done by Judge Sam Rosenman of New York).

ENEMY MONEY

Richberg comes from Chicago and fits into the western scheme of appointments, but in New Deal circles there is one large black mark against his name. He has become a thriving legal lobbyist, having accepted fees from a conglomerate of anti-New Deal agencies. One of these was the automobile group which attempted to settle the anti-trust action taken against them in Milwaukee. But Richberg's most amazing client is a gentleman named Trujillo, who is president of the Dominican Republic and the bloodiest dictator in the western hemisphere. Richberg inherited this client from Joseph E. Davies when Davies married the breakfast food

Cunningham in the British official science journal, Nature.

Actually, he says, water on the outer bank flows even slower than along the inner bank of the bend. The erosion, he says, is due to the fact that the water is deeper along the outer side of the bend, like water whirled in a pan. The result is a current flowing down the outer bank and more or less directly across at the bottom of the river toward the inner bank.

This down-draft does the erosion and takes the eroded particles across to the inner bank to deposit them. All this, he says, has been proven by experiments and river engineers do not doubt the explanation.

The Mailbag

Public opinion, or what somebody in office imagines to be public opinion, is our ruler. If public opinion is active, the politicians and people sit up and take notice. There is a definite need for action talking and thinking on public matters. Honest, intelligent fair discussion of problems is immensely useful. So that every citizen may have his say and contribute to the formation of public opinion, The Journal invites letters to The Mailbag.

IT WAS PLEASURE

To the Editor: The Santa Ana Council of Parents and Teachers wishes to thank you for the generous publicity which your paper gave the Christmas Benefit show at the Broadway theater. Your cooperation in this matter contributed largely to its success and was deeply appreciated by the council.

MRS. E. D. FROESCHLE,
Corresponding Secretary.

CHURCH NEWS

To the Editor: St. John's Lutheran church of Orange herewith wishes to express its appreciation to you for your kind interest in its activities during the past year and for the generous support allotted them.

"PANAY" MOVIES

To the Editor: Recently I attended a showing of the film of the "Panay" disaster at a theater. Two things about the showing seemed significant. First, the audience was of normal size; apparently the Panay film was not a drawing card. Second, the audience sat through the showing in absolute silence.

Just what does the average American think about the Panay business and the whole question of American interests in the Far East? Conversations with people in many different walks of life gave me material for a tentative statement. Mr. Average American:

1. Has a profound racial dislike and distrust of the Japanese, but it is defensive rather than aggressive. He has also a political distrust of England, France, Germany, Italy and Russia.
2. Believes fervently that he was ballyhooed and stamped into the World War and has erected strong mental barricades against a similar onslaught of propaganda.
3. Agrees with the President that attacks on our ships and citizens by the Japanese are uncalled for and must stop.
4. Agrees with Boake Carter that American investment in China is not valuable enough to be maintained at the risk of involving 130 millions of people in a war.

TOM ROBERTS.

SAYS UNIONS 'RACKET'

To the Editor: I read about the Exclusion creamy employer not wanting to join the A. F. of L., and I think they are smart. The biggest reason is I think the unions are a racket. Why should they or any other working man pay Green or Lewis and a lot of other big time bunco a big salary? And I think a company should have some kind of protection so they don't have to hire union help unless they want to.

No, I'm not a big employer. I am a laborer who has worked around unions, but never would join one. That is, unless it was a local one, with no outside leaders or I should say racketeers.

All the good unions have done will never pay for the lives that have been lost by men, women and children lose. All the money on earth won't pay for one "God" given life.

MR. W. W. WARD.

Box 296A, Rte. 1.
I. S. I. may not be a crab, but let's stop and think before someone is killed in Santa Ana.

To the Editor: Up to the year 1920 women and men in this country were well satisfied with wearing hose made from beautiful mercerized cotton yarn. In 1920 the craze to wear silk hose practically originated. This mercerized cotton hose was made on the identical knitting machines and by the identical 138,000 knitters who are making the silk hose today. Therefore, none of those 138,000 would lose their jobs if they were making cotton hose instead of using Japan silk.

I would advise you, if you believe that I do not know what I am talking about, to write a few lines today. Therefore, none of those 138,000 would lose their jobs if they were making cotton hose instead of using Japan silk. I would advise you, if you believe that I do not know what I am talking about, to write a few lines today. Therefore, none of those 138,000 would lose their jobs if they were making cotton hose instead of using Japan silk.

FRED STERNBERG.

By ART SHANNON
Howdy, folks! One of the great problems is what becomes of all the calendars one receives on New Year's.

We used to worry about future generations becoming soft, but no more. Not when we think of the bond issues they're going to have to pay.

Nature not only makes mistakes, she doesn't even show good judgment. For example, when a man becomes bald and hard of hearing, she starts a growth of hair on his ears.

Dad—Son, I'm spanking you because I love you.
Dad—I'd like to be big enough to return your love.

Dear Homer: Do you know the story about the girl who bleached her hair?—Reader.
Certainly not, we don't know any off-color stories.

JOE BUNGSTARTER SAYS:
"I've got no use for my brother-in-law. He's the sort of guy that pats you on the back before your face, and hits you in the eye behind your back."

All hands on deck to splice the main brace.

WHIMSIES

DAY BY DAY With O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK.—Newspaper and magazine editors, movie talent scouts and especially newspaper syndicate chiefs are still toying with the forlorn hope of flushing another Will Rogers out of the corn rows. So far every effort has met the usual odious comparison.

Indeed, anyone with half of Rogers' tug in similar vain could, in the patois of the Rialto, "write his own ticket." His drawl, natural shyness and hesitancy in speech are over-scheduled. And there are a half dozen in Hollywood extra lists who look, laugh and walk like him.

Also there are a few whose imitative dry humor on stage and radio have much the same honey warmth. Bob Burns, for instance, yet somehow Burns as well as the rest just miss. They simply haven't got what it takes, the indefinable stuff that was pure Rogersania.

Oddly, one of Roger's sons and one who would shrink from trying to fill his father's shoes, is believed by many to come nearest to being the original package. He has many of his Dad's jerky mannerisms, speaking stumbles and a heavy fund of alfalfa aphorisms.

The best-mannered movie audiences in town are at the two Trans Lux theaters on the Gold Coast stretch of upper Madison avenue. Most of the clientele is composed of regulars, which include the President's mother, Frank G. Connelley, the Washington Alchemist, the Byrnes Foyes, Mrs. Vincent Astor and such. Many customers use it as a drop-in between after-dinner and the night club buzz and are ermined and white tied—all very high tea and tra la la!

Buddy Baer, on the upswing in pugilism, shows none of the exhibitionist qualities that brought yawns for his brother Max, instead of indulging capers in the cafes, he goes to the movies or attends hockey and other sporting events. In his human contacts, he suggests an amiable grizzily—if there is such an animal. His only similarity to his brother is his exuberance. After a tense victory at the Garden he platters around the ring in a veritable fit of hysteria, so much so his handlers had to lead him off to his dressing room ga ga.

A thin horse for a long race is strikingly emphasized by Broadway columnist Louis Sobel. A frail, bespectacled, thin fellow, he wouldn't weigh more than 125 pounds soaking wet with a flatiron in each hand, he seems to thrive on his nightly circle of the cafes. Wherever Broadway puts on a show or a diolo, he is at the ringside, jumping down the casualties and transmitting them into capable columns before he calls it a night. The secret of such stamina is, of course, temperance in both food and drink. Sobel came out of New Haven via that journalistic, penny-pincher called The Graphic. He has a wife and daughter, has written a play, several novels and now and then makes personal appearances at the last of the vaudeville houses—Loew's State.

Crosby Gaige, the theatrical producer, is regared by gourmets as one of the finest cooks this side of the Atlantic and a shrewd judge of wine. Too, he is the first person people think of in an effort to promote a benefit or some truly worthy person. Crosby lets others take the glory but he does the ground work. His latest benevolence were for the late Don Marquis—pronounced Mar-kwiss—who had been out of the running for six years and whose work made life brighter for millions in his time.

Thingumbobs: Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt is reputed to have told friends she likes columnists best of her chums. For example, when she writes a daily flower lamp, she'll wind, etc. note: Cole Porter wrote two of his top songs while convalescing from a pair of broken legs. . . . Gabriel Heatter is the favorite radio commentator among members of the supreme court.

He who hesitates: He swayed out of a bar, hailed a taxi, stepped half in, told the taxi to wait and went back into the bar. An hour later, in passing, I peeked in to see the same gentleman on a chair making an impassioned speech to a bored bartender and a nodding customer.
